Hard On The Wind Hard On The Wind:

Lewis and Clark Vernon Preston, 2013-01-22 By Terry Nathans the weather and climate of the trans Mississippi west was virtually unknown at the beginning of the nineteenth century. This changed dramatically shortly after the Louisiana Purchase was signed in 1803 which set the stage for acquiring the first systematic weather measurements of the trans Mississippi west. The framework for obtaining these measurements was outlined in the now famous June 20 1803 letter from President Thomas Jefferson to his protégé and personal secretary Captain Meriwether Lewis. In that letter Jefferson instructed Lewis to plan and carry out an overland expedition to the Pacific Ocean for the purposes of commerce and to observe and record a broad range of natural history subjects including the climate as characterised by the thermometer by the proportion of rainy cloudy clear days by lightning hail snow ice by the access recess of frost by the winds prevailing at different seasons the dates at which particular plants put forth or lose their flower or leaf Jackson 1978 p 63 Jefferson's instructions to Lewis which were part of his decades long ambition of launching an expedition to explore the interior of North America were made at the threshold of what Fleming 1990 has called the expanding horizons in meteorology. During this period more reliable meteorological instruments began to emerge allowing for a more comprehensive and systematic acquisition of weather data.
