Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility Un-Habitat, 2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world's leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

Connecting Asia Michael G. Plummer, Peter J. Morgan, Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2016-01-29 This book analyses how closer regional connectivity and economic integration between South Asia and Southeast Asia can benefit both regions With a focus on the role played by infrastructure and public policies in facilitating this process it provides a detailed and up to date discussion of issues innovations and progress Country studies of national connectivity issues and policies cover Bangladesh India Myanmar Nepal Sri Lanka and Thailand examining major developments in trade and investment economic cooperation the role of economic corridors and regional cooperation initiatives Thematic chapters explore investment in land and sea transport infrastructure trade facilitation infrastructure investment financing supporting national and regional policies and model based estimates of the benefits of integration They also identify significant opportunities for strengthening these integration efforts as a result of the recent opening up of Myanmar in political economic and financial terms For the first time for these regions the book employs a state of the art computable general equilibrium CGE model incorporating heterogeneous firms to estimate the advantages of integration Providing perspective on the latest thinking on integration policy Connecting Asia is an essential resource for academics policymakers and business people alike
