It is generally understood that the following are essential to efficient writing in English: an organized writing process; carefully chosen words; effective use of evidence and examples; an effective conclusion; and a strong command of grammar and mechanics. The following are the components of the writing process that are most often taught in writing courses. The components of the writing process are: 1. Pre-writing (brainstorming, freewriting, clustering, etc.); 2. Writing (drafting, revising, editing, etc.); 3. Post-writing (proofreading, publishing, etc.).

It is an irony that these other young people in "The Golden Age" are the only ones who do not receive the same intense attention as the narrator in the "Golden Age" story. In discussing the "Golden Age" story, the narrator says, "I was the only one who was not a part of the story" (100). This is a statement that is both ironic and self-deprecating. The narrator is the only one who is not a part of the story, yet he is the only one who is not a part of the story. This is a statement that is both ironic and self-deprecating.
