Functional Coatings for Food Packaging Applications Stefano Farris ,Jari Vartiainen, 2021-01-20 The food packaging industry is experiencing one of the most relevant revolutions associated with the transition from fossil based polymers to new materials of renewable origin However high production costs low performance and ethical issues still hinder the market penetration of bioplastics Recently coating technology was proposed as an additional strategy for achieving a more rational use of the materials used within the food packaging sector According to the packaging optimization concept the use of multifunctional thin layers would enable the replacement of multi layer and heavy structures thus reducing the upstream amount of packaging materials while maintaining or even improving the functional properties of the final package to pursue the goal of overall shelf life extension Concurrently the increasing requirements among consumers for convenience smaller package sizes and for minimally processed fresh and healthy foods have necessitated the design of highly sophisticated and engineered coatings To this end new chemical pathways new raw materials e g biopolymers and non conventional deposition technologies have been used Nanotechnology in particular paved the way for the development of new architectures and never before seen patterns that eventually yielded nanostructured and nanocomposite coatings with outstanding performance This book covers the most recent advances in the coating technology applied to the food packaging sector with special emphasis on active coatings and barrier coatings intended for the shelf life extension of perishable foods

A Rifleman's Diary Eric Fawbert,2008-02-18 In 1940 the author was accepted for RAF flying crew then changed his mind and opted for the infantry Why see book As he survived 6 years 4 in the front lines of N Africa Italy and NW Europe without a scratch he has never regretted the change Back in Civvy Street after the war and having voted Churchill out of office his diaries were relegated to the attic and brought out only recently as of interest in his old age and a change from the boredom of TV etc They did more than relieve boredom however as they reminded him that his service although not overtly recognised was something to be proud of He decided that an easy reading book would be of interest to his two children and the family name as well as an opportunity to dispel a number of fallacies of that time and to give a true insight into the life and thoughts of a ranker in the field The author believes that most war books are biased to some extent occasionally unintended but often intentionally so he stresses that this book adheres to the diary entries written on site at the time occasionally whilst still under fire His views tend to be confrontational but have not been challenged in the course of a private issue This book is intended for a wider readership Railway Review ,1921
