Quinones MD, 2019-02-08 Hydroponics is the art of growing plants without soil When most people think of growing marijuana hydroponically they think of growing their plants with their roots suspended directly into water with absolutely no growing medium However this is only one type of hydroponic growing There are several variations including growing your plant in a soilless medium such as perlite coco coir and then watering your plants every day which is not very different from growing in soil The debate over cannabis growing mediums is not likely to end soon With all the information available it can be hard to make this decision regarding your own grow op We're here to help you choose With the continuous momentum of cannabis legalization a lot of people are starting to take a swing at growing cannabis Smoking your own home grown bud is one of the most gratifying experiences a stoner can have But when starting out most people don't know where to begin In this article we'll be covering hydroponic vs soil based growing operations This will help the inexperienced and even the experienced grower decide on the correct medium for their next grow In 2017 when we talk about soil vs hydro plantations we're usually referring to indoor vs outdoor growing This is because indoor mediums are rarely 100% soil People tend to use substrates like coco coir and rockwool which are soilless mixtures Most fully soil operations out there will be found in outdoor plantations The advantage to growing hydroponically is that you deliver all the nutrients the plant needs right to its roots In soil the roots have to seek out and extract all nutrients but with hydroponics you take the work out of finding nutrients so the plant can focus more of its energy on growing bud and making flowers buds Therefore you will end up with much faster growth and higher yields than if you grew your marijuana plants in soil Hydroponics can be very simple or very complex depending on your set up I recommend with starting with a method that's on the simple side and then trying a more complex method once you have a little experience under your belt take the work out of finding nutrients so the plant can focus more of its energy on growing buds and making flowers buds. Therefore you will end up with much faster growth and higher yields than if you grew your marijuana plants in soil. Hydroponics can be very simple or very complex depending on your set up. I recommend starting with a method that's on the simple side and then trying a more complex method once you have a little experience under your belt.

Go Organic J.D. Rockefeller, 2015-09-25. For the past few years growing cannabis or marijuana for personal use continues to be on the rise, especially now that more and more people are finally discovering the virtues of having their very own homegrown. In fact, having your garden right in the comforts of your home for personal consumption is now made easier than ever as long as you have the right environment that includes lighting, humidity, nutrients, pest control, and air movement. With all that you can expect that your plants are going to produce more ounces with you having to spend just a fraction of the cost compared to the current market prices. Why grow indoors? You will ask. In general, plants that are grown outdoors are not that highly regarded as compared to their counterparts that are grown indoors. It is primarily because the outdoor plants are leafier and are not that fully developed, basically because these are being grown on a relatively larger scale. It will be much easier to properly manicure several ounces than hundreds of pounds. Rain and wind can destroy the plants faster. The wind can degrade terpenes and THC, which can bruise trichomes and break the branches. On the other hand, the indoor plants call for a completely different growing system. The best buds indoors are being grown and cultivated in rooms which make use of the right combination of elements to ensure a higher and healthier yield. In this short guide, you will get to learn more about organic growing of marijuana indoors and the important things that you need to guarantee only the best plants right inside your very own home.
