1859-1865: speeches, letters and miscellaneous writings; presidential messages and proclamations Abraham Lincoln, 1989 Peace in the US Republic of Letters, 1840-1900 Sandra M. Gustafson, 2023-09-06 Peace in the US Republic of Letters 1840 1900 explores the early peace movement as it captured the imagination of leading writers The book charts the rise of the peace cause from its sources in the works of William Penn and John Woolman through the founding of the first peace societies in 1815 and the mid century peace congresses to the postbellum movement's consequential emphasis on arbitration The Civil War is the central axis for the book with three chapters organized around readings of novels by James Fenimore Cooper Harriet Beecher Stowe and Nathaniel Hawthorne spanning the period from 1840 to 1865 Cooper had personal connections to the movement and thought deeply about the issues it addressed Literary interest in peace at times overlapped with abolitionism as was true for Stowe And in the case of Hawthorne attention to peace advocacy arose out of a mixture of skepticism regarding perfectionist impulses a desire to explore the nature and limits of violence and fear of civil conflict The volume also explores fiction engaged with problems that arose in the aftermath of that war including novels by Henry Adams and John Hay on political corruption and class conflict works on the failures of Reconstruction by Albion Tourgée and Charles Chesnutt and the varied treatments of Indigenous experience in Helen Hunt Jackson's Ramona and Simon Pokagon's Queen of the Woods All of these writers focused on issues related to the cause of peace expanding its thematic reach and anticipating key insights of twentieth century peace scholars Abraham Lincoln: Speeches and Writings

Representations of Death in Nineteenth-Century US Writing and Culture Lucy Frank, 2018-01-18 From the famous deathbed scene of Harriet Beecher Stowe s Little Eva to Mark Twain s parodically morbid poetess Emmeline Grangerford a preoccupation with human finitude informs the texture of nineteenth century US writing This collection traces the vicissitudes of this cultural preoccupation with the subject of death and examines how mortality served paradoxically as a site on which identity and subjectivity were productively rethought Contributors from North America and the United Kingdom representing the fields of literature theatre history and American studies analyze the sexual social and epistemological boundaries implicit in nineteenth century America s obsession with death while also seeking to give a voice to the strategies by which these boundaries were interrogated and displaced Topics include race and gender based investigations into the textual representation of death imaginative constructions and re constructions of social practice with regard to loss and memorialisation and literary re conceptualisations of death forced by personal and national trauma

The Political Thought of the Civil War Alan Levine, Thomas W. Merrill, James R. Stoner, Jr., 2019-08-08 Why does the Civil War still speak to us so powerfully If we listen to the most thoughtful forceful and passionate voices of that day we find that many of the questions at the heart of that conflict are also central to the very idea of America and that many of them remain unresolved in our own time The Political Thought of the Civil War offers us the opportunity to pursue these questions from a new critical perspective as leading scholars of American political science history and literature engage in some of the crucial debates of the Civil War era and in the process illuminate more clearly the foundation and fault lines of the American regime The essays in this volume use practical dilemmas of the Civil War to reveal and probe fundamental questions about the status of slavery and race in the American founding the tension between moralism and constitutionalism and the problem of creating and sustaining a multiracial society on the basis of the original principles of the American regime Adopting a deliberative approach the authors revisit the words and deeds of the most important political actors of era from William Lloyd Garrison John C Calhoun and Abraham Lincoln to Alexander Stephens and Frederick Douglass with reference to the American Founders and the architects of Reconstruction The essays in this volume consider the difficult choices each of these figures made the specific problems they were responding to and the consequences of those choices As this book exposes and explores the theoretical principles at play within their historical context it also offers vivid reminders of how the great controversies surrounding the Civil War continue to shape American political life to this day
