Powell and Pressburger

Ellen Z. Whitton,2025-11-10 This book offers a new perspective on the renowned filmmaking duo The Archers Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger through its examination of their engagement with history and its representation on screen Usually celebrated for their vibrant aesthetics and bold narratives Powell and Pressburger have rarely been explored through the lens of realism or historiophoty This study addresses this gap through the in depth analysis of three of their war films The Spy in Black 1939 The Life and Death of Colonel Blimp 1943 and The Battle of the River Plate 1956 It demonstrates that the pair were committed to fair historical representations and authenticity and should be considered as early filmmaker historians for their contribution to public understandings of the past To interrogate this aspect of their partnership this book introduces a new methodological framework grounded in the structuralist theories of Roland Barthes and Brian McFarlane while influenced by Hayden White and New Cinema History It balances close textual analysis with investigations into production context and reception history offering a more holistic approach to understanding how authenticity was constructed on screen and received by audiences Through these case studies the book highlights how The Archers employed research practices like archival work expert consultation and on location visits that mirror those of traditional historians In doing so they crafted historically rich films that shaped public memory demonstrating filmmaking practices that are now common among contemporary filmmakers in that genre Beyond reassessing this aspect of The Archers legacy this methodology offers a practical framework for analysing and creating historical authenticity on screen
