Linguistic Relativity In Sla Thinking For Speaking Second Language Acquisition:

Linguistic Relativity in SLA ZhaoHong Han, Teresa Cadierno, 2010 Crosslinguistic influence is an established area of second language research and as such it has been subject to extensive scrutiny. Although the field has come a long way in understanding its general character, many issues still remain a conundrum, for example, why does transfer appear selective and why does transfer never seem to go away for certain linguistic elements. Unlike most existing studies which have focused on transfer at the surface form level, the present volume examines the relationship between thought and language in particular thought as shaped by first language development and use and its interaction with second language use. The chapters in this collection conceptually explore and empirically investigate the relevance of Slobin's thinking for speaking hypothesis to adult second language acquisition, offering compelling and enlightening evidence of the fundamental nature of crosslinguistic influence in adult second language acquisition. This is a landmark publication, the first to concertedly address the implications for SLA of Slobin's thinking for speaking hypothesis. Do processes of conceptualisation that L1s predispose speakers to affect their L2 production and if so in what ways? Can we re-think for L2 speaking and what cognitive abilities enable this? The research issues this book raises are fundamentally important for SLA theory and pedagogy alike. Peter Robinson, Professor of Linguistics and SLA, Aoyama Gakuin University, Tokyo, Japan. Language affects how we think. Slobin's 1996 thinking for speaking hypothesis concerns the ways that native language directs speakers' attention to pick those characteristics of events that are readily encodable therein. In this impressive collection, Han and Cadierno marshal strong support for effects of native language upon second language use, i.e. for rethinking for speaking. A must read for anybody interested in linguistic relativity and transfer in SLA. Nick Ellis, Professor of Psychology, University of Michigan, USA. The Routledge Encyclopedia of Second Language Acquisition Peter Jake Robinson, 2013 The Routledge Encyclopedia of Second Language Acquisition offers a user-friendly, authoritative survey of terms and constructs that are important to understanding research in second language acquisition, SLA and its applications. The Encyclopedia is designed for use as a reference tool by students, researchers, teachers and professionals with an interest in SLA. The Encyclopedia has the following features: 252 alphabetized entries written in an accessible style including cross-references to other related entries in the Encyclopedia and suggestions for further reading. Among these 9 survey entries that cover the foundational areas of SLA in detail: Development in SLA, Discourse and Pragmatics in SLA, Individual Differences in SLA, Instructed SLA, Language and the Lexicon in SLA, Measuring and Researching SLA, Psycholinguistics of SLA, Social and Sociocultural Approaches to SLA, Theoretical Constructs in SLA. The rest of the entries cover all the major subdisciplines, methodologies and concepts of SLA from Accommodation to the ZISA project. Written by an international team of specialists, the Routledge Encyclopedia of Second Language Acquisition is an invaluable resource for students and researchers with an academic interest in SLA.

Domains and Directions in the Development of TBLT Martin Bygate,2015-11-15 This volume brings together contemporary position statements and research reviews which were originally presented as Plenary Addresses to the Biennial International Conference on Task Based Language Teaching between 2005 and 2013 It thus assembles up to date reflections critiques and recommendations from influential researchers working within the TBLT paradigm over the last 30 years thereby also highlighting most of the major theoretical perspectives so far developed While the plenarists structured their chapters around their original presentations they have been invited to update their thinking as they feel appropriate and in response to recent developments in the field The collection thus offers representative and accessible coverage of a range of approaches to the overall philosophy of TBLT to the relationship between TBLT and the study of second language acquisition and to the development and implementation of TBLT as a comprehensive approach to language education curriculum and pedagogy

The Acquisition of French in Multilingual Contexts Pedro Guijarro-Fuentes,Katrin Schmitz,Natascha Müller,2015-11-23 This volume brings together new research from different theoretical paradigms addressing the acquisition of French It focuses on the acquisition of French in combination with English German Russian or Spanish and enriches our understanding of the particularities of French and the role of language combinations in the acquisition process The chapters examine the development of different grammatical aspects word order phenomena adjective placement dislocation and cleft constructions wh questions DP phenomena argument omissions and constructions with particular word groups and use various methodologies such as elicitation tasks longitudinal studies and parsing experiments to further add to our understanding of how French is acquired in different contexts This book will be a resource for researchers and graduate students working in the discipline of language acquisition especially those who are interested in language contact phenomena where two typologically different languages are involved Moving Across Languages

Alberto Hijazo-Gascón, 2021-08-23 The book analyzes the complex relationship between languages in the bilingual mind with a focus on motion event typology and the acquisition of Spanish as a second language L2 The author starts out by examining L1 patterns which are transferred to less complex L2 systems The data discussed was elicited by German learners of Spanish A similar transfer is observed when L1 is typologically and genetically close as in the case of French and Italian learners of Spanish Furthermore the author clarifies the relevance of intra typological differences within the same linguistic family including important differences in the lexicalization patterns of Italian with respect to French and Spanish The findings contribute to our understanding of the field of motion event typology and thinking for speaking The book demonstrates that conceptual transfer is present in different aspects of the motion lexicalization domain Interestingly there are some challenging aspects both for speakers whose first language is typologically different and for those whose language is typologically close The book offers suggestions on how these challenges in the restructuring of meaning in L2 can be addressed in language teaching Specifically pedagogical translation and mediation present promising pathways to the strengthening of semantic competences in the L2 Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipovi?, Kasia M.

Jaszczolt, Katarzyna Jaszczolt, 2012 This volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity A number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta French Hinuq Italian Japanese Polish Serbian and Spanish among others The contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Language Culture and Cognition HCP 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations Encoding Motion Events Till Woerfel, 2018-09-10 Children who grow up as second or third generation immigrants typically acquire and speak the minority language at home and the majority language at school Recurrently these children have been the subject of controversial debates about their linguistic abilities in relation to their educational success However such debates fail to recognise that variation in bilinguals language processing is a phenomenon in its own right that results from the dynamic influence of one language on another This volume provides insight into cross linguistic influence in Turkish German and Turkish French bilingual children and uncovers the nature of variation in L1 and L2 oral motion event descriptions by evaluating the impact of language specific patterns and language dominance The results indicate that next to typological differences between the speakers L1 and L2 language dominance has an impact on the type and direction of influence However the author argues that most variation can be explained by L1 L2 usage preferences Bilinguals make frequent use of patterns that exist in both languages but are unequally preferred by monolingual speakers This finding underlines the importance of usage based approaches in SLA The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Acquisition, Morphosyntax, and Semantics Tania Ionin, Silvina Montrul, Roumyana Slabakova, 2024-03-11 This handbook provides innovative and comprehensive coverage of research on the second language acquisition SLA of morphosyntax semantics and the interface between the two Organized by grammatical topic the chapters are written by experts from formal and functional perspectives in the SLA of morphosyntax and semantics providing in depth yet accessible coverage of these areas All chapters highlight the theoretical underpinnings of much work in SLA and their links to theoretical syntax and semantics making comparisons to other populations including child language acquirers bilinguals and heritage speakers links to first language acquisition and bilingualism dedicating a portion of each chapter to the research methods used to investigate the linguistic phenomenon in question links to psycholinguistics and experimental linguistics and where relevant including intervention studies on the phenomenon in question links to applied linguistics The volume will be indispensable to SLA researchers and students who work on any aspect of the SLA of morphosyntax or semantics With its coverage of a variety of methodologies and comparisons to other populations such as child language acquirers early bilinguals heritage speakers and monolingual adults the handbook is expected to also be of much interest to linguists who work in psycholinguistics first language acquisition and bilingualism
