How Sex Got Screwed Up: The Ghosts that Haunt Our Sexual Pleasure - Book One Jon

Knowles,2019-06-28 The ghosts that haunt our sexual pleasure were born in the Stone Age Sex and gender taboos were used by tribes to differentiate themselves from one another These taboos filtered into the lives of Bronze and Iron Age men and women who lived in city states and empires For the early Christians all sex play was turned into sin instilled with guilt and punished severely With the invention of sin came the construction of women as subordinate beings to men Despite the birth of romance in the late middle ages Renaissance churches held inquisitions to seek out and destroy sex sinners all of whom it saw as heretics The Age of Reason saw the demise of these inquisitions But it was doctors who would take over the roles of priests and ministers as sex became defined by discourses of crime degeneracy and sickness The middle of the 20th century saw these medical and religious teachings challenged for the first time as activists such as Alfred Kinsey and Margaret Sanger sought to carve out a place for sexual freedom in society However strong opposition to their beliefs and the growing exploitation of sex by the media at the close of the century would ultimately shape 21st century sexual ambivalence Book One of this two part publication traces the history of sex from the Stone Age to the Enlightenment Interspersed with personal hauntings from his own life and the lives of friends and relatives Knowles reveals how historical discourses of sex continue to haunt us today This book is a page turner in simple and plain language about how sex got screwed up for millennia For Knowles if we know the history of sex we can get over it

The Evolutionary Invisible Hand Matúš Pošovanc,2021-04-20

The book presents a new theoretical approach to the description of economic phenomena over time A realistic and meaningful description of economic phenomena over time is one of the basic preconditions for the success of any economic theory The presented theoretical solution or proposal has two main characteristics The first is a modification of the theory of subjective value in the form of the claim that one perceives the satisfaction of one s needs in the context of one s overall individual portfolio of goods The causal relationship of the old theory in the form of need is satisfied by good is modified in terms of sum of needs is satisfied by portfolio of goods sum of goods This is a small modification which however brings several important elements to the description of economic phenomena over time The old theoretical approach did not enable us to operate over time because of different value context of goods which is changing over time However the portfolio of goods is in fact a formally logical homogeneous construction of the mind which is applicable over time The second characteristic is the anchoring of this modification of the theory of subjective value in evolutionary intersubjective apriorism The book will be of interest to any Austrian and Mainstream Economists who deal with problems of description of economic phenomena in time Also for those involved in topics such as estimating of future why entrepreneurs are successful or the problem of social ordering or equilibration and those who are interested in the new evolutionary approach to the emergence of criteria for rational decision making     The Rover ,1844     The United Presbyterian ,1901
