

Launching Writing Workshop Unit Introduction

This is the first unit in the Kindergarten Writing Units of Study. It is important to spend time in this unit, rolling out your expectations and procedures gradually and reteaching as necessary so students work with confidence and independence.

This unit culminates with an opportunity for students to publish a piece of writing. You may want to establish criteria for publishing. You may choose to type final projects or have students hand-write final project in book or one-page form. Lessons 15 and 16 teach children how to share writing and how to respond with questions and compliments.

Celebration at the end of the publishing process is an important way to let students know we value their writing. It is something to look forward to and can be motivate students to do their best work while publishing. Celebrations can be as simple as sharing writing with a partner or as elaborate as an author's tea with parents. It is entirely up to you. Try different ways to celebrate at the end of each unit and have a marvelous time with your students as you write together through the year.

Student Goals for this Unit:

Writing Stage: Preconventionality

1. Students will use classroom rituals and routines to work independently:
 - develop writing stamina.
 - know how to access the materials and tools in the classroom.
 - engage in a respectful and productive writing space.
2. Students will see themselves as confident and competent writers:
 - visualize, tell, write and draw stories from their lives [ELA.K.WRT.2.6].
 - use pictures, markings, and words to express a story [ELA.K.WRT.2.7].
 - share ideas and writing with peers.
 - explore different purposes of writing.
3. Students will use phonemic awareness, and the alphabetic principle to write [ELA.K.WRT.1.2, 2.6].
 - use alphabet cards/chart.
 - segment words to write what they hear.
 - use magic lines as place-holder for word or letter.

The Classrooms All Young Children Need

Patricia M. Cooper, 2009-10-15 Teacher and author Vivian Paley is highly regarded by parents educators and other professionals for her original insights into such seemingly everyday issues as play story gender and how young children think In The Classrooms All Young Children Need Patricia M Cooper takes a synoptic view of Paley's many books and articles charting the evolution of Paley's thinking while revealing the seminal characteristics of her teaching philosophy This careful analysis leads Cooper to identify a pedagogical model organized around two complementary principles a curriculum that promotes play and imagination and the idea of classrooms as fair places where young children of every color ability and disposition are welcome With timely attention paid to debates about the reduction in time for play in the early childhood classroom the role of race in education and No Child Left Behind The Classrooms All Young Children Need will be embraced by anyone tasked with teaching our youngest pupils

How Interculturally Competent am I? An Introductory Thesis Writing Course for International Students Yau Tsai, 2014-07-08 This textbook aims to help students to develop thesis writing skills through experiential learning by conducting a research project based on a diary study and reporting on it in a mini thesis It was developed for the benefit of international students who in their penultimate year of undergraduate study are planning to write a graduation thesis in English related to intercultural communication in their final year with little or no prior knowledge of the subject or of thesis writing itself The overarching structure of the book provides a clear overview of the main parts of a thesis and how they fit together It presents wide ranging activities designed to help students to critically analyse and evaluate the academic literature with a specific research question in mind and provides a basic introduction to qualitative research methodology placing a special focus upon the use of diary studies in research Thirteen units guide students through the process of analyzing and evaluating competing models of intercultural competence before using them as frameworks to structure self reflection in a small scale study Along the way students write a series of structured diary entries in response to different kinds of intercultural experience that ultimately allows them to draw conclusions about not only their current level of intercultural competence within the terms they choose to define it but also about the standards they tend to apply in practice To promote extensive reading the textbook may be used in conjunction with its optional accompanying handbook from which many reading passages are drawn Tsai Y and Houghton S Becoming Intercultural Inside and Outside the Classroom Newcastle upon Tyne Cambridge Scholars Publishing 2010

Teaching Introduction to Women's Studies Carolyn DiPalma, Barbara S. Winkler, 1999-10-30 This edited collection addresses the institutional context and social issues in which teaching the women s studies introductory course is embedded and provides readers with practical classroom strategies to meet the challenges raised The collection serves as a resource and preparatory text for all teachers of the course including experienced teachers less experienced teachers new faculty and graduate student teaching assistants The collection will also be of interest to educational scholars of feminist and progressive pedagogies and all teachers interested in innovative practices The contributors discuss the larger political context in which the course has become a central representative of women s studies to a growing although less feminist identified population Increased enrollments and changes in student population are noted as a result in part of the popularity of Introduction to Women's Studies courses in fulfilling GED and diversity requirements New forms of student resistance in a climate of backlash and changes in course content in response to internal and external challenges are also discussed Evidence is provided for an emerging paradigm in the conceptualization of the introductory course as a result of challenges to racism heterosexism and classism in women's studies voiced by women of color and others in the 1980s and 1990s Sensationalist charges that women's studies teachers including those who teach the Introduction to Women's Studies course are the academic shock troops of a monolithic feminism are challenged and refuted by the collection's contributors who share their struggles to make possible classrooms in which informed dialogue and disagreement are valued

Launch a Primary Writing Workshop Lucy Calkins, 2010-10-08 If the writing workshop is always changing always haphazard children remain pawns waiting for their teacher's agenda For this reason and others I think it is so important for each day's workshop to have a clear simple structure Children should know what to expect This allows them to carry on it frees the teacher from choreographing activities and allows time for listening How we structure the workshop is less important than that we structure it Lucy Calkins Learn how to take your students from pictorial story telling into fluent writing and how Lucy Calkins and her colleagues launch a rigorous and responsive primary writing workshop Through 2 foundational books The Nuts and Bolts of Teaching Writing and Launching the Writing Workshop and eight online video clips Lucy and her colleagues provide the strategies lesson plans and tools you'll need to jump in and teach writing to your students in powerful lasting ways The Nuts and Bolts of Teaching Writing equips you to teach a productive well managed writing workshop introduces you to the methods that underlie all writing instruction and helps you plan a yearlong curriculum in the teaching of writing In addition to guiding you through the classroom systems and teaching structures that are the foundation of a primary writing workshop this comprehensive overview also includes chapters about working within developmental stages of writing supporting English language learners and assessing writers Whether you have taught in a writing workshop for years or are just learning the term Launching the Writing Workshop will offer you a comprehensive plan for the first four weeks of a primary writing workshop Lucy and Leah Mermelstein present both the precise language and pacing of their teaching and the reasoning behind it so that you can create the same powerful experiences with your own children Whether writers write just a few labels on items in their pictures or write paragraphs by the end of this unit all children know that in order to write a writer fills him or herself with an idea plans how the text will go and then draws and writes as best he and she can working to make the page match the writer's vision The eight accompanying video clips convey the inner workings of writing workshops in a variety of primary classrooms These live from the classroom video clips are supported and enhanced by an optional voice over coaching commentary from Lucy that explains the teaching moves and strategies Video clips are free for 6 months upon registration You must register within 6 months of purchase Learn more about these resources and the series
