Law in Practice, Includes Video Course

Prentiss Cox, Laura Thomas, 2017-12-16 The Law in Practice casebook is the primary text for a turnkey course integrating legal doctrine and lawyering skills that has proven to be successful for first and second year law students. The course material includes multiple options for litigation and transactional simulations including client and witness interviews, depositions, client counseling sessions, chambers conference, mediation, and attorney only negotiating sessions. The casebook is accompanied by four professionally produced videos and extensive case file materials allowing for integration of legal analysis and skills training in one course. The text covers negotiating theories and concepts necessary to effectively conduct interviews and client counseling. The simulation material allows for weekly or periodic downloads of simulation documents that allow students to see the facts shift as the case unfolds over time as occurs in actual practice. Detailed faculty materials provide weekly class plans that track the simulation material and include engaging teaching exercises and multiple choice questions appropriate for clicker systems.

Legal Negotiation and Settlement

Gerald R. Williams, 1983 This work is written primarily for law students who are learning negotiating skills in clinical courses but it will serve equally well for lawyers and others who are interested in the topic of negotiation. The book has three main areas of emphasis. First, negotiating behavior of practicing lawyers falls into two main patterns: cooperative and aggressive, and implications of those patterns are discussed. The author then covers the four stages of the negotiation process and lastly lays out the legal rules and economic principles that apply to the negotiated settlement of disputes. The Appendices include transcripts of two lawyer to lawyer negotiations.
