Foster Hirsch, 1999 The author turns his penetrating eye on the cycle of crime movies that succeeded the classic genre film noir Orson Welles film Touch of Evil 1958 recently re-released is generally cited as the end of that line or in Hirsch's words noir's rococo tombstone But in its themes techniques and attitudes the genre has not only survived but in the 90s flourishes as never before Its retro edge has given it postmodern chic to the point where noir no longer simply the name of a film genre is also the name of a literary genre a pop album and a perfume So noir lives but like any genre that endures it has had to continually reinvent itself While its defining subjects violence sex greed loss of innocence remain as do its dominant character types the femme fatale her vulnerable male victim and the private eye burdened with his own code of honor these ingredients have been blended in strikingly new ways Hirsch demonstrates how neo noir has reflected changes in contemporary life from film technology to social values Relentlessly mobile camerawork multilayered soundtracks and lush colors now work to create dark stories that tell of growing cynicism about government distrust of the press tensions in gender politics and in race relations In his map of neo noir Hirsch revisits scores of films released over the last four decades *Odds Against Tomorrow Chinatown The Manchurian Candidate Cape Fear Kluge Body Heat The Last Seduction The Grifters The Usual Suspects L.A.
