Law Mart Riaz Tejani, 2017-07-18 American law schools are in deep crisis

Enrollment is down student loan debt is up and the profession's supply of high paying jobs is shrinking. Meanwhile thousands of graduates remain underemployed while the legal needs of low income communities go substantially unmet. Many blame overregulation and seek a free market to solve the problem but this has already been tested. Seizing on a deregulatory policy shift at the American Bar Association private equity financiers established the first for profit law schools in the early 2000s with the stated mission to increase access to justice by serving the underserved. Pursuing this mission at a feverish rate of growth they offered the promise of professional upward mobility through high tech simplified teaching and learning. In Law Mart a vivid ethnography of one such environment Riaz Tejani argues that the rise of for profit law schools shows the limits of a market based solution to American access to justice. Building on theories in law political economy and moral anthropology Tejani reveals how for profit law schools marketed themselves directly to ethnoracial and socioeconomic minority communities relaxed admission standards increased diversity shook up established curricula and saw student success rates plummet. They contributed to a dramatic rise in U.S. law student debt burdens while charging premium tuition financed up front through federal loans over time. If economic theories have so influenced legal scholarship what happens when they come to shape law school transactions governance and oversight? For students promised professional citizenship by these institutions is there a need for protections that better uphold institutional quality and sustainability? Offering an unprecedented glimpse of this landscape Law Mart is a colorful foray into these essential questions.

Disserted Dunia Zongwe, 2023-09-30 Disserted is a groundbreaking comprehensive book that guides LL.B. students on how to craft a first class dissertation. It tackles head on the triple crisis faced by law students in developing nations a crisis of doubting thinking and writing. This crisis manifests itself in the form of poorly written dissertations. This is the first book to show how to practically assemble a dissertation from the perspective of decoloniality. This makes Disserted uniquely suited to students from the Global South considering that decoloniality empowers them to overcome the triple crisis. Indeed its originality in presenting practical advice and decolonial theory sets this book apart from the handful of guides on LL.B. dissertations. Existing resources and manuals are filled with generalities and lack in practicality. Written in student friendly prose its 23 chapters cover a wide range of topics including research proposals topic selection purpose and problem statements literature reviews digital tools and models powered by artificial intelligence AI the basics of legal prompt engineering plagiarism grammar and research methods. Each chapter offers secrets and deep insights drawing from the author's extensive experience in supervising LL.B. dissertations and research papers notably in Southern Africa and India. Though primarily targeting LL.B. students Disserted also serves as an essential companion and indispensable resource for supervisors law professors jurists and anyone interested in unraveling the complexities of writing dissertations. Overall Disserted underscores the importance of structured dissertation writing coupled with a decolonized research approach that subverts dominant perspectives exposes the role of AI and technology in entrenching the coloniality of knowledge and fosters a broader understanding of law. The
