The Field of Cloth of Gold Glenn Richardson, 2014-01-07 Pomp pageantry and epic showing off a vivid recreation of the 1520 peace promoting rally between the kings of England and France The Sunday Times Glenn Richardson provides the first history in more than four decades of a major Tudor event an extraordinary international gathering of Renaissance rulers unparalleled in its opulence pageantry controversy and mystery Throughout most of the late medieval period from 1300 to 1500 England and France were bitter enemies often at war or on the brink of it In 1520 in an effort to bring conflict to an end England's monarch Henry VIII and Francis I of France agreed to meet surrounded by virtually their entire political nations at the Field of Cloth of Gold In the midst of a spectacular festival of competition and entertainment the rival leaders hoped to secure a permanent settlement between them as part of a European wide Universal Peace Richardson offers a bold new appraisal of this remarkable historical event describing the preparations and execution of the magnificent gathering exploring its ramifications and arguing that it was far more than the extravagant elitist theater and cynical charade it historically has been considered to be A sparkling new account of the Field of Cloth of Gold as an extraordinary demonstration of ostentatious rivalry Suzannah Lipscomb author of A Journey Through Tudor England Richardson's book seeks to throw new light on what we know of the Field itself from how it was organized provisioned and enacted to the reasons such a sensational junket should have mattered and in this it undoubtedly succeeds London Review of Books

Architecture of Great Expositions 1937-1959 Rika Devos, Alexander Ortenberg, 2016-03-09 This book investigates architecture as a form of diplomacy in the context of the Second World War at six major European international and national expositions that took place between 1937 and 1959 The volume gives a fascinating account of architecture assuming the role of the carrier of war related messages some of them camouflaged while others quite frank The famous standoffs between the Stalinist Russia and the Nazi Germany in Paris 1937 or the juxtaposition of the USSR and USA pavilions in Brussels 1958 are examples of very explicit shows of force The book also discusses some less known and more subtle messages revealed through an examination of several additional pavilions in both Paris and Brussels of a series of expositions in Moscow of the Universal Exhibition in Rome that was planned to open in 1942 and of London's South Bank Exposition of 1951 all of them related in one way or another to either an anticipation of the global war or to its horrific aftermaths A brief discussion of three pre World War II American expositions that are reviewed in the Epilogue supports this point It indicates a significant difference in the attitude of American exposition commissioners who were less attuned to the looming war than their European counterparts The book provides a novel assessment of modern architecture's involvement with national representation Whether in the service of Fascist Italy or of Imperial Japan of Republican Spain or of the post war Franquista regime of the French Popular Front or of socialist Yugoslavia of the arising FRG or of capitalist USA of Stalinist Russia or of post colonial Britain exposition architecture during the period in question was driven by a deep faith in its ability to represent ideology The book argues that this widespread confidence in architecture's ability to act as a propaganda tool was one of the reasons why Modernist architecture lent itself to the service of such different masters
