

Google Docs is the company's main weapon in the enterprise market, besides Gmail of course, and the office and collaboration suite has been seeing a steady stream of updates and improvements aimed at making the cloud more of an alternative.

Google's regular modus operandi is to iterate fast, always bring in small updates to improve a service or app. But every once in a while a reboot is needed and Google Docs is getting just such a reboot. The underlying cloud technology has been completely rewritten and the apps themselves are getting a major overhaul.

"They say a house is only as good as its foundation, and we believe the same holds true for web applications like Google Docs. With our old foundation, we could continue delivering most features you wanted quickly, but over time it became clear that some just weren't possible. So we decided to rebuild the underlying infrastructure of Docs to give us greater flexibility, improved performance and a better platform for developing new features quickly," Jonathan Rochelle, Group Product Manager at Google, explained.

"Today, we're pleased to announce preview versions of the new Google document and spreadsheet editors and a new standalone drawings editor, all built with an even greater focus on speed and collaboration," he added.

The Google docs document editor comes with a number of improvements. It has a revamped UI, though the changes aren't that visible unless you have the old editor
