Translating in Linguistically Diverse Societies Gabriel González Núñez, 2016-09-09 This work is the first book length treatment on translation policy Nearly everywhere in the world

populations are multilingual and mobile consequently language policies developed by the authorities must include choices about the use or non use of translation This book recognizes that these choices or the absence thereof become policies of their own in terms of translation It builds upon the work of scholars in the fields of translation studies and language planning and policy in order to develop a new theoretical perspective on translation policy In essence the book proposes that translation policy can be understood as the management practice and beliefs surrounding the use of translation The book deals with these issues under European and international law and then explores such management practice and beliefs in the UK as a case study Ultimately the reader can find a fuller appreciation of both the importance and complexity of translation policy

Language Rights Revisited - The Challenge of Global Migration and Communication Dagmar Richter, Ingo Richter, R. Toivanen, I. Ulasiuk, 2012-01-01 Hauptbeschreibung Linguistic autonomy assured internationally to ethnic minorities has succeeded above all in Europe yet is nowhere near passing its acid test in other parts of the world Examples show that it is not only a question of linguistic autonomy but of ethnic and religious conflicts which are simmering in the foreground Hence there are reasons for doubting whether international agreements designed to guarantee linguistic autonomy can solve these conflicts The protection of indigenous languages is justified largely by the principle of diversity and is de

Introduction to Modern Information Retrieval Gobinda G. Chowdhury, 2010 An information retrieval IR system is designed to analyse process and store sources of information and retrieve those that match a particular user's requirements A bewildering range of techniques is now available to the information professional attempting to successfully retrieve information It is recognized that today's information professionals need to concentrate their efforts on learning the techniques of computerized IR However it is this book's contention that it also benefits them to learn the theory techniques and tools that constitute the traditional approaches to the organization and processing of information In fact much of this knowledge may still be applicable in the storage and retrieval of electronic information in digital library environments The fully revised third edition of this highly regarded textbook has been thoroughly updated to incorporate major changes in this rapidly expanding field since the second edition in 2004 and a complete new chapter on citation indexing has been added Unique in its scope the book covers the whole spectrum of information storage and retrieval including users of IR and IR options database technology bibliographic formats cataloguing and metadata subject analysis and representation automatic indexing and file organization vocabulary control abstracts and indexing searching and retrieval user centred models of IR and user interfaces evaluation of IR systems and evaluation experiments online and CD ROM IR multimedia IR hypertext and mark up languages web IR intelligent IR natural language processing and its applications in IR citation analysis and IR in digital libraries and trends in IR research Illustrated with many examples and comprehensively referenced for an international audience this is an indispensable textbook for students of library and information studies It is also an invaluable aid for information practitioners wishing to brush up on their skills and keep up to date with the latest techniques relevance for students with diverse career goals Experiment 116 Rena Mosteirín, 2021-10-20 Experiment 116 is a creative deformation of Shakespeare's Sonnet 116 using automatic machine translation. The poems begin in their original Shakespearean English and are then moved to another language then another then perhaps a third and then back to English. In this way the poem moves the poem lives it is reincarnated reproduced misunderstood and mistaken. The essay that concludes the book explores how our practices of reading writing and revision can benefit from the use of free online translation tools. Experiment 116 invites readers to imagine translation errors and variants appearing during this process as a bridge between languages striking unintentional emotional chords and producing creative depictions of life as potentially codified by multi lingual readers. In so doing it enables a fugitive relation to idioms and stages a confrontation with multiple languages that function as the resources by which poets create through language cultural bridges. Experiment 116 asks its reader to consider automated algorithmic language translation as a site for the birth of a poetics of a global refugee idiolect.
