Responsibilisation at the Margins of Welfare Services Kirsi Juhila, Suvi Raitakari, Christopher Hall, 2016-11-10 The impetus for this book is the shift in welfare policy in Western Europe from state responsibilities to individual and community responsibilities The book examines the ways in which policies associated with advanced liberalism and New Public Management can be identified as influencing professional practices to promote personalisation participation empowerment recovery and resilience In examining the concept of responsibilisation from the point of view of both the responsibilised client and welfare worker the book breaks from the traditional literature to demonstrate how responsibilities are negotiated during multi professional care planning meetings home visits staff meetings focus groups and interviews with different stakeholders The settings examined in the book can be described as on the margins of welfare mental health substance abuse homelessness services and probation work where the rights and responsibilities of clients and workers are uncertain and constantly under review Each chapter approaches the management of responsibilities from a particular angle by combining responsabilisation theory and discourse analysis to examine everyday encounters Taken together the chapters paint a comprehensive picture of the responsabilisation practices at the margins of welfare services and provide an extensive discussion of the implications for policy and practice Drawing upon both the governmentality literature and everyday encounters the book provides a broad approach to a key topic It will therefore be a valuable resource for social policy public administration social work and human service researchers and students and social and health care professionals

Foucault and Managerial Governmentality Alan McKinlay, Eric Pezet, 2017-02-10 In the last two decades there has been an explosion of research inspired by Michel Foucault's suggestion of a new concept governmentality The distinctive feature of modern governmentality is that across all sorts of fields rule is predicated upon the active subject as the vehicle through which and by which power is exercised The appeal of governmentality is that whether we are considering the workplace the school or welfare regimes it opens up new ways of looking at familiar institutions Foucault and Managerial Governmentality is about Michel Foucault's concept of governmentality The novelty of this concept is that looks at the ways that populations and organisations are imagined in ways that premise collective gains through expanding individual freedoms Specifically how are technologies of freedom devised that improve the overall performance health productivity or parental responsibility of a given population Understanding the operation of technologies of control is a simple enough task argues Foucault but also one that blinds us to the increasing prevalence of technologies of freedom Foucault and Managerial Governmentality aims not just to locate this concept in Foucault's wider research project but to apply it to all sorts of management techniques By applying governmentality to questions of management and organization we will also develop Foucault's original somewhat sketchy concept This book has three innovative narratives an awareness of the historicity of the concept the application of governmentality to specific forms of management means that we escape the temptation to read any and all forms of technology and organization as an expression of neoliberalism and finally the interviews with Peter Miller and Nikolas Rose provide unique intellectual and personal insights into the development of the governmentalist project over the last thirty years

An Archaeology of Educational Evaluation Emiliano Grimaldi, 2019-08-16 An Archaeology of Educational Evaluation Epistemological Spaces and Political Paradoxes outlines the epistemology of the theories and models that are currently employed to evaluate educational systems education policy educational professionals and students learning It discusses how those theories and models find their epistemological conditions of possibility in a specific set of conceptual transferences from mathematics and statistics political economy biology and the study of language The book critically engages with the epistemic dimension of contemporary educational evaluation and is of theoretical and methodological interest. It uses Foucauldian archaeology as a problematising method of inquiry within the wider framework of governmentality studies. It goes beyond a mere critique of the contemporary obsession for evaluation and attempts to replace it with the opening of a free space where the search for a mode of being acting and thinking in education is not over determined by the tyranny of improvement. This book will appeal to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of educational philosophy, education policy and social science.

Governmentality after Neoliberalism Mark Bevir, 2018-10-24. Neoliberalism has had a major impact on public policy but it has also perhaps obscured the equally dramatic spread of other policy tools based on significantly different forms of social science. This book therefore explores the mixture of social technologies that have arisen since neoliberalism, sometimes alongside and sometimes in conflict with it, but generally as attempts to address problems created by the market reforms of a high neoliberalism. These have included attempts to spread networks, joining up and long term partnerships and to build state capacity, social capital and resilient communities. Thematically, each chapter is defined by its engagement with governmentality, specifically challenging governmentality theory to pay more attention to practices. The book also develops a complex and variegated account of neoliberalism and its afterlife as chapters highlight the different ways in which a range of market mechanisms and other technologies now coexist in different policy areas. Finally, the book moves beyond abstract discussions of both governmentality and neoliberalism to concrete demonstrations of this approach in action. This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of governance, public policy, governmentality theory and more broadly to British Politics, social policy and sociology.

Neoliberalisms in British Politics Christopher Byrne, 2018-09-21. Taking a chronological approach, this book challenges established economic and ideologic narratives of neoliberalism in Britain by charting the gradual diffusion of an increasingly interventionist neoliberal governmental rationality in British politics since the late 1970s and the various means by which the project has furnished itself with a hegemonic basis for its popular support. Spanning five decades of British political history and drawing on rich empirical evidence to bring conceptual clarity to and chart the effects of a style of government bound up with a host of epochal changes, it concludes by considering Brexit and the rise of Corbynism as the final act in the neoliberal saga. It then poses the question: Is British politics on the verge of a major reconstruction representing a decisive rejection of neoliberalism? This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of British politics and neoliberalism, liberalism and more broadly to political theory, political economy and public policy.

Advertising and Cultural Politics in Global Times Pamela Odih, 2016-03-03. Advertising and Cultural Politics in Global Times traces daringly transgressive convergences between cultural politics and global advertising media. It engages with a range of interpolations between cultural politics and advertising technologies, including the governmental rationality of neoliberal vistas, transgressive aesthetics and the cultural politics of representation, the political sign economy of citizen branding, techno-political convergences between the social and political and the marking of a new exciting geo-political terrain for cultural politics in global times Tracing global advertising practices to the cultural politics commonly manifested in the postmodern political caesura of advertising this book makes use of extensive case studies whilst drawing on the work of Baudrillard Giroux Foucault Castells and Latour to illustrate the manner in which advertising continues to revolutionize the political sphere As such it will be of interest to a range of readers across media studies cultural studies and sociology
