What Glasses Are You Wearing?

Have you ever tried on glasses or sunglasses? They change the way things look, don't they? Well, sometimes our brains act like glasses, and we can get tripped about the way things really are. Here are some common "glasses" our brains can wear, and the ways they can take up our things differently.

Seeing Things the Positive

When your brain doesn't "look" the same way!

Are you happy?

If you do well in school, you might think "I got lucky!"

If you get a compliment, you might think "Oh how kind to say that because that's how I feel!"

Fixed Thinking

These glasses make you think you should always be thinking in a certain way or that there's something wrong with you.

If you think you're not good at something, you might think "There's something about me that's wrong about my personality!"

Consequences

These glasses make you think that every small mistake or problem will lead to a big problem.

If you talk or fight with a friend, you might think "I'll never have friends again and I will spend the rest of my life alone!"

Black and White Thinking

When your brain looks only at extremes or "all or nothing".

If you forget something for school, you might think "That's it, the whole day is ruined!"

Overgeneralization

Thinking that because it happened once, it will always happen.

If you make a mistake, you might think "I always mess everything up!"

Exaggeration

When your brain makes things seem much bigger or worse than they are.

If your mom comes home from work angry, you might think "My mom is angry because I did something bad and she's never going to love me!"
