Division of Government in the Constitution

- Article I gives the legislative power to the government the right to make laws.
- Article II gives the executive power to the government the right to enforce laws.
- Article III gives the judicial power to the government the right to interpret laws.
- Article IV gives the power to the states and the federal government to enforce laws.
- Article V gives the power to the states and the federal government to amend the Constitution.
- Article VI gives the power to the states and the federal government to enforce laws.

Division of Government in the Constitution

- Article I gives the legislative power to the government the right to make laws.

Along the number of members from the president that makes each branch.

The President

1. For the People of the United States, he shall be chosen a more perfect Union,

2. establish Justice,

3. secure domestic Tranquility,

4. provide for the common defense,

5. promote the general Welfare,

6. and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and future Generations.

He shall be elected for four years.

He shall be elected for four years.

This means that there will be a temporary power against each branch.

This means that the laws will be applied fairly to all.

This means that the government will be kept under within the country.

This means that the common people and future generations will have freedom.

This means that the Constitution will be kept under the people. It will be kept under in our lives and in the future of the country.

This means that the government will provide for the well being of all people.
