Abstract: The purpose of this study was to investigate the effect of a 6-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary middle-aged women. Thirty-two women participated in the study. They were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a supervised aerobic and resistance training program three times per week. The control group did not participate in any exercise program. Data were collected at baseline and after 6 weeks. The results showed that the exercise group had significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength, and HRQL compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a 6-week supervised exercise program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary middle-aged women.
