

Gulliver's Travels

My mistress had a daughter of nine years old. She decided to fit up the baby's cradle for me: the cradle was put into a small drawer of a cabinet, and the drawer placed upon a shelf for fear of the rats. This was my bed all the time I staid with those people.

It began to be known and talked of in the neighbourhood that my master had found a strange animal in the field exactly shaped in every part like a human creature. Another farmer, who lived hard by, came on a visit to inquire into the truth of this story. I was immediately produced, and placed upon a table, where I walked as I was commanded, asked him in his own language how he did, and told him he was welcome, just as my little nurse had instructed me.

The next morning my master carried me in a box to the neighbouring town. I was placed upon a table in the largest room of the inn. I turned about several times to the company, paid my humble respects, said they were welcome, and used some other speeches I had been taught. I was that day shown to twelve sets of company, and I was often forced to act over again until I was half dead with weariness. My master, for his own interest, would not suffer any one to touch me except my nurse; and to prevent danger, benches were set round the table at such a distance as to put me out of every body's reach.

Jonathan Swift, A Voyage to Brobdingnag (chapter 10, 1726 (abridged and adapted))
