Quixote's Soldiers David Montejano, 2010-06-23 Details the grassroots interplay among the variety of ideologies individuals and organizations that made up the Chicano movement in San Antonio Texas Journal of American History In the mid 1960s San Antonio Texas was a segregated city governed by an entrenched Anglo social and business elite The Mexican American barrios of the west and south sides were characterized by substandard housing and experienced seasonal flooding Gang warfare broke out regularly Then the striking farmworkers of South Texas marched through the city and set off a social movement that transformed the barrios and ultimately brought down the old Anglo oligarchy In Quixote's Soldiers David Montejano uses a wealth of previously untapped sources including the congressional papers of Henry B Gonzalez to present an intriguing and highly readable account of this turbulent period Montejano divides the narrative into three parts In the first part he recounts how college student activists and politicized social workers mobilized barrio youth and mounted an aggressive challenge to both Anglo and Mexican American political elites In the second part Montejano looks at the dynamic evolution of the Chicano movement and the emergence of clear gender and class distinctions as women and ex gang youth struggled to gain recognition as serious political actors In the final part Montejano analyzes the failures and successes of movement politics He describes the work of second generation movement organizations that made possible a new and more representative political order symbolized by the election of Mayor Henry Cisneros in 1981 A most welcome addition to the growing literature on the Chicano movement of the 1960s and 1970s Pacific Historical Review

The Foreign Film Renaissance on American Screens, 1946-1973 Tino Balio, 2010-11-05 Largely shut out of American theaters since the 1920s foreign films such as Open City Bicycle Thief Rashomon The Seventh Seal Breathless La Dolce Vita and L'Avventura played after World

War II in a growing number of art houses around the country and created a small but influential art film market devoted to the acquisition distribution and exhibition of foreign language and English language films produced abroad Nurtured by successive waves of imports from Italy Great Britain France Sweden Japan and the Soviet Bloc the renaissance was kick started by independent distributors working out of New York by the 1960s however the market had been subsumed by Hollywood From Roberto Rossellini's Open City in 1946 to Bernardo Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris in 1973 Tino Balio tracks the critical reception in the press of such filmmakers as François Truffaut Jean-Luc Godard Federico Fellini Michelangelo Antonioni Tony Richardson Ingmar Bergman Akira Kurosawa Luis Buñuel Satyajit Ray and Milos Forman Their releases paled in comparison to Hollywood fare at the box office but their impact on American film culture was enormous The reception accorded to art house cinema attacked motion picture censorship promoted the director as auteur and celebrated film as an international art Championing the cause was the new cinephile generation which was mostly made up of college students under thirty The fashion for foreign films depended in part on their frankness about sex When Hollywood abolished the Production Code in the late 1960s American made films began to treat adult themes with maturity and candor In this new environment foreign films lost their cachet and the art film market went into decline
