

A high-angle, close-up shot of a wooden workbench covered with various electronic components and tools. In the center, there are several black cylindrical capacitors of different sizes. To the left, a large black toroidal inductor is visible. Scattered around are various resistors, integrated circuits, and other small electronic parts. Tools like a blue-handled screwdriver and a yellow-handled soldering iron are also present. The background shows more components and a yellow object, possibly a box or a piece of equipment. The overall scene suggests a busy electronics workshop or a hobbyist's bench.
