Vernacular and Earthen Architecture: Conservation and Sustainability Camilla Mileto, Fernando Vegas López-Manzanares, Lidia García-Soriano, Valentina Cristini, 2017-09-01 Vernacular architecture in general and earthen architecture in particular with their rich variety of forms worldwide are custodians of the material culture and identity of the peoples who built them In addition they are widely recognized as ancestral examples of sustainability in all their variants and interpretations and the architecture of the present ought to learn from these when designing the sustainable architecture of the future The conservation of these architectures seemingly simple yet full of wisdom is to be undertaken now given their intrinsic value and their status as genuine examples of sustainability to be learnt from and interpreted in contemporary architecture Vernacular and earthen architecture Conservation and Sustainability will be a valuable source of information for academics and professionals in the fields of Environmental Science Civil Engineering Construction and Building Engineering and Architecture Towards Green Campus Operations Walter Leal Filho,Fernanda Frankenberger,Patricia

Iglecias,Roberta Consentino Kronka Mülfarth,2018-05-14 Matters related to sustainable development albeit global in nature are best handled at the local level This line of thinking is particularly true to the higher education context where the design and implementation of sustainability initiatives on campuses can demonstrate how a given university translates the principles of sustainable development into practice at the institutional level Yet there is a paucity of specific events where a dialogue among sustainability academics and practitioners concerned with a research projects b teaching and c planning and infra structure leading to campus greening takes place so as to allow a transdisciplinary and cross sectoral exchange of ideas and experiences on the issues matters and problems at hand It is against this background that this book has been prepared It is one of the outcomes of the First Symposium on Sustainability in University Campuses SSUC 2017 organised by the University of S o Paulo in Brazil Manchester Metropolitan University UK the Research and Transfer Centre Applications of Life Sciences of the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences Germany and the Inter University Sustainable Development Research Programme IUSDRP This book showcases examples of campus based research and teaching projects regenerative campus design low carbon and zero carbon buildings waste prevention and resilient transport among others It also demonstrates the role of campuses as platforms for transformative social learning and research and explores the means via which university campuses can be made more sustainable The aims of this publication are as follows i to provide universities with an opportunity to obtain information on campus greening and sustainable campus development initiatives from round the world ii to document and promote information ideas and experiences acquired in the execution of research teaching and projects on campus greening and design especially successful initiatives and good practice iii to introduce methodological approaches and projects which aim to integrate the topic of sustainable development in campus design and operations This book entails contributions from researchers and practitioners in the field of campus greening and sustainable development in the widest sense from business and economics to arts administration and environment Advanced Studies in Efficient Environmental Design and City Planning Ferdinando Trapani,Nabil Mohareb,Federica Rosso,Denia Kolokotsa,Sreetheran Maruthaveeran,Mahmoud Ghoneem,2021-09-24 This book explains how learning from past mistakes in urban design can help to enhance sustainable cities and how the principles of Green Urbanism can yield more resilient urban settlements

Environmental design is a fundamental principle in shaping cities. However, environmental challenges like increased resource consumption, water degradation, and waste-related issues are among the greatest problems now facing humanity, which is why these issues need to be considered with regard to smart cities, either for the development of new urban centers or for the transformation of existing cities. The book not only discusses the importance of integrating sustainability principles in the urban design process but also demonstrates their application to the development of sustainable cities. As such, the book offers essential information and a source of inspiration for all those who want to build more sustainable cities. LEED v4

Reference Guide for Building Design and Construction US Green Building Council,2016-07-01 Prefabricated Construction for Sustainability and Mass Customization ,2024-03-13 Building is a system of energy and environment which needs to accommodate diverse needs and demands at individual and societal levels Nearly 40% of global energy use derives from construction In fact a house consumes a significant amount of energy before and after occupancy and the associated CO2 emissions are contributing to climate change Prefabrication is a means to mass produce buildings or parts and components Thus in theory production costs can be reduced through economies of scale In the 1920s the significance of mass produced houses was widely propagated by Le Corbusier who saw standardization as fundamental to mass production Nonetheless today in response to growing global warming issues and the constant increase in energy prices the construction industry is becoming more responsive to the delivery of sustainable architecture than ever Within this context sustainability may embrace not only building economy but also the adequacy beyond the legitimacy in which the quality barely coincides with individuals various dynamic needs desires and expectations today In this respect mass produced prefabs alone fail to realize total sustainability In 1987 a paradoxical concept of mass customization was introduced by Stanley Davis Nonetheless the idea applied to housing dates back to the 1950s The essence of mass customizable architecture was speculated by Walter Gropius as he emphasized the need for standardizing and mass producing not only entire buildings but also their components The combination of standard building components which can be prefabricated results in mass producing various types of constructions through economies of scope where the quality can be defined by user choices of the components given in consideration of economic constraints and needs and demands This book is an initial attempt to integrate the two notions of sustainability and mass customization by reviewing the potential capacities of prefabricated construction Frontiers in Built Environment, editor's picks 2023 Izuru Takewaki,2024-03-19 Dear readers of Frontiers in Built Environment As the Field Chief Editor for Frontiers in Built Environment I am happy to present this curated selection of papers that have made a significant impact within our community Among the large number of submissions that we received these 14 papers represent some of the best published in 2023 the year when the journal attained its first impact factor With many high quality papers to consider in selecting these 14 articles we faced the challenging task of how to include papers from across the 15 distinct sections of the journal whilst at the same time achieving a sense of cohesion to the ebook overall However amidst this diversity we noticed a convergence in our highest quality papers around three pivotal themes that are central to our journal's mission: resilience, sustainability, and technology. In this way, despite the broad range of topics covered within both our journal and this selection, this ebook can truly be considered representative of our journal as a whole. These carefully chosen papers encompass high quality original research and comprehensive reviews which also embody the ethos of innovation and excellence that defines our journal. As the Field Chief Editor, I am thankful to all authors who have enriched our journal with their high caliber work. I extend sincere appreciation to the dedicated efforts of our editors and reviewers whose invaluable contributions have been instrumental in shaping Frontiers in Built Environment in 2023.

Change Management Towards Life Cycle AE(C) Practice Anna Dalla Valle, 2021-03-15. The book explores how architectural engineering and construction AEC firms have been adapting and changing to effectively address key environmental challenges focusing on Life Cycle Thinking and related methodologies: Life Cycle Assessments and Life Cycle Costing. Starting from current practice, the book outlines the necessary change management to turn into life cycle AE/C practice, switching from a product technology mindset to a life cycle thinking and holistic approach. Although the primary audience of the book are Architectural and Engineering firms, the broad range of topics encourages readers from different backgrounds to explore the latest advancements in construction sector. Service companies and software developers can find inspiration to develop innovative tools and solutions; clients can find ways to demand sustainability as key target for building design; and universities can align academic programmes to address new industry challenges.

HVAC Commissioning Guidebook Maija Virta, 2021-03-31. Green buildings have become common in India and other countries in Asia. However, there is a concern regarding the performance of green buildings failing to meet the expectations of clients during the operation. One of the key reasons for this is poorly commissioned HVAC systems. In this publication, we provide tools and knowhow for more efficient HVAC commissioning. It gives answers for four major questions: why commissioning is needed, how to perform proper commissioning, which key performance issues of common HVAC equipment need to be considered, and what kind of checklists are used during commissioning. It covers the entire commissioning process, beginning with the owner's project requirements and commissioning design reviews. Then it explains procedures during installation and start-up of equipment, followed by the functional performance testing, seasonal commissioning, and 10 months operation review. This publication is developed by Indian Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers (ISHRAE) for Indian and Asian requirements in conjunction with the Federation of European HVAC Associations (REHVA). The process steps described in this publication are in line with all major international building standards and green building certification schemes. Note: T F does not sell or distribute the Hardback in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka.
