

Building and Maintaining an Effective Board

An effective Board of Trustees understands the mission of the organisation, helps move the organisation's mission forward and understands and operates in accordance with legal responsibilities. Dysfunctional or ineffective boards are typically characterised by one or more of the following:

- The Board does not have or does not abide by a regular meeting schedule
- Nothing much happens at Board meetings and many Board members do not attend
- Trustees do not understand the mission of the organisation and are not passionate about it
- The Trustees do not understand the financial underpinning of the organisation
- Trustees attempt to micro-manage staff
- There is a lack of trust and confidence between the Board and the Management
- Trustees speak disrespectfully of each other and of management
- A few Trustees dominate Board meetings
- The organisation is floundering or dying

Below are some key questions that may assist the Board Members in ensuring good governance of the CBO.

Checklist for the Board of Trustees;

1. Are you committed to helping advance the organisation's mission and are you aware of the time and resource commitments involved?
2. Do you have a copy of the organisation's Deed of Trust and the mission statement and have you read these? Does the Board periodically review these documents to make sure they are complying with them?
3. Is there a Code of Conduct and have you gone through the document?
4. Are the financial performance and budget documents accessible, understandable and regularly monitored by the Board?
5. Is the Board functioning effectively, with regular well attended and well run meetings addressing important issues?
6. Does the Board review its own effectiveness?
