Learning Difference Race And Schooling In The Multiracial Metropolis:

Learning Difference Annegret Daniela Staiger, 2006 An examination of the role that race plays in the lives of students at a multiracial U S high school      The Multiracial Urban High School S. Rosenbloom, 2010-11-22 From 1996 2000 thirty minority teenagers African American Chinese American Puerto Rican American and Dominican American were interviewed every year for four years to investigate how their experiences in high school shaped their social relationships      Learning Race, Learning Place Erin N. Winkler, 2012-11-15 In an American society both increasingly diverse and increasingly segregated the signals children receive about race are more confusing than ever In this context how do children negotiate and make meaning of multiple and conflicting messages to develop their own ideas about race Learning Race Learning Place engages this question using in depth interviews with an economically diverse group of African American children and their mothers Through these rich narratives Erin N Winkler seeks to reorient the way we look at how children develop their ideas about race through the introduction of a new framework comprehensive racial learning that shows the importance of considering this process from children s points of view and listening to their interpretations of their experiences which are often quite different from what the adults around them expect or intend At the children s prompting Winkler examines the roles of multiple actors and influences including gender skin tone colorblind rhetoric peers family media school and especially place She brings to the fore the complex and understudied power of place positing that while children s racial identities and experiences are shaped by a national construction of race they are also specific to a particular place that exerts both direct and indirect influence on their racial identities and ideas      The Complex Web of Inequality in North American Schools Gilberto Q. Conchas, Briana M. Hinga, Miguel N. Abad, Kris D. Gutierrez, 2019-08-22 The Complex Web of Inequality in North American Schools analyzes and challenges the critical gaps and inequalities that persist in the American school system Showing how historical biases have been inherited in current policies relating to non dominant youth the text calls for educational reforms that perform in the name of social justice This edited collection carefully interrogates how technocratic educational policies and reforms are often unequipped to address the interplay of political social economic ideological factors that are at the roots of educational injustice Considering the most vulnerable student populations original case studies explore how inadequate structures practices and beliefs have increased marginalization and highlight those instances in which policy has proved effective in reducing opportunity gaps between economically rich and poor students between white Asian Black and Latino youth between native English speakers and second language learners highlighting racial integration and unequal American Indian education and for students with special educational needs The insights into such policies shed light on the complex web of historically embedded inequities that continue to shape the construction roll out and consequences of education policy for the most marginalized youth populations today This volume will be of interest to graduate and postgraduate students researchers and academics in the fields of education policy sociology of education economics of education and history of education and well as policy evaluation      Handbook of Research on Teaching

Antiracism Mica Pollock, 2010-07-19 Which acts by educators are racist and which are antiracist? How can an educator constructively discuss complex issues of race with students and colleagues? In Everyday Antiracism, leading educators deal with the most challenging questions about race in school, offering invaluable and effective advice. Contributors including Beverly Daniel Tatum, Sonia Nieto, and Pedro Noguera describe concrete ways to analyze classroom interactions that may or may not be racial, deal with racial inequality and diversity, and teach to high standards across racial lines. Topics range from using racial incidents as teachable moments and responding to the n-word to valuing students' home worlds, dealing daily with achievement gaps, and helping parents fight ethnic and racial misconceptions about their children. Questions following each essay prompt readers to examine and discuss everyday issues of race and opportunity in their own classrooms and schools. For educators and parents determined to move beyond frustrations about race, Everyday Antiracism is an essential tool.

Children and Youth Speak for Themselves Heather Beth Johnson, 2010-03-23 The volume is a collection of articles from scholars who pay particular attention to children and/or adolescents' voices, interpretations, perspectives, and experiences within specific social and cultural contexts. Contributions include research stemming from a broad spectrum of methodological and theoretical orientations.      Integration Interrupted Karolyn Tyson, 2011-02-21 An all too popular explanation for why Black students aren't doing better in school is their own use of the "acting white" slur to ridicule fellow Blacks for taking advanced classes, doing schoolwork, and striving to earn high grades. Carefully reconsidering how and why Black students have come to equate school success with whiteness, Integration Interrupted argues that when students understand race to be connected with achievement, it is a powerful lesson conveyed by schools, not their peers. Drawing on over ten years of ethnographic research, Karolyn Tyson shows how equating school success with "acting white" arose in the aftermath of Brown v. Board of Education through the practice of curriculum tracking, which separates students for instruction ostensibly by ability and prior achievement. Only in very specific circumstances, when Black students are drastically underrepresented in advanced and gifted classes, do anxieties about the burden of "acting white" emerge. Racialized tracking continues to define the typical American secondary school, but it goes unremarked except by the young people who experience its costs and consequences daily. The rich narratives in Integration Interrupted throw light on the complex relationships underlying school behaviors and convincingly demonstrate that the problem lies not with students but instead with how we organize our schools

Urban High Schools Annette B. Hemmings, 2012-03-12 This multidisciplinary overview introduces readers to the historical sociological anthropological and political foundations of urban public secondary schooling and to possibilities for reform Focused on critical and problematic elements the text provides a comprehensive description and analyses of urban public high schooling through different yet intertwined disciplinary lenses Students and researchers seeking to inform their work with urban high schools from social cultural and political perspectives will find the theoretical frameworks and practical applications useful in their own studies of or initiatives related to urban public high schools Each chapter includes concept boxes with synopses of key ideas summations and discussion questions

Modern Societal Impacts of the Model Minority Stereotype Hartlep, Nicholas Daniel, 2015-01-31 The model minority stereotype is a form of racism that targets Asians and Asian Americans portraying this group as consistently hard working and academically successful Rooted in media portrayal and reinforcement the model minority stereotype has tremendous social ethical and psychological implications Modern Societal Impacts of the Model Minority Stereotype highlights current research on the implications of the model minority stereotype on American culture and society in general as well as Asian and Asian American populations An in depth analysis of current social issues media influence popular culture identity formation and contemporary racism in American society makes this title an essential resource for researchers educational administrators professionals and upper level students in various disciplines

Closing the Opportunity Gap Prudence L. Carter, Kevin G. Welner, 2013-05-30 This collection of essays highlights the differences in opportunities that exist for students in the American public school system

The Sex Education Debates Nancy Kendall, 2024-05-31 Educating children and adolescents in public schools about sex is a deeply inflammatory act in the United States Since the 1980s intense political and cultural battles have been waged between believers in abstinence until marriage and advocates for comprehensive sex education In The Sex Education Debates Nancy Kendall upends conventional thinking about these battles by bringing the school and community realities of sex education to life through the diverse voices of students teachers administrators and activists Drawing on ethnographic research in five states Kendall reveals important differences and surprising commonalities shared by purported antagonists in the sex education wars and she illuminates the unintended consequences these protracted battles have especially on teachers and students Showing that the lessons that most students teachers and parents take away from these battles are antithetical to the long term health of American democracy she argues for shifting the measure of sex education success away from pregnancy and sexually transmitted infection rates Instead she argues the debates should focus on a broader set of social and democratic consequences such as what students learn about themselves as sexual beings and civic actors and how sex education programming affects school community relations      White Kids Mary Bucholtz, 2010-12-23 In White Kids Mary Bucholtz investigates how white teenagers use language to display identities based on race and youth culture Focusing on three youth styles preppies hip hop fans and nerds Bucholtz shows how white youth use a wealth of linguistic resources from social labels to slang from Valley Girl speech to African American English to position themselves in the school's racialized social order Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork in a multiracial urban California high school the book also demonstrates how European American teenagers talk about race when discussing interracial friendship and difference narrating racialized fear and conflict and negotiating their own ethnoracial classification The first book to use techniques of linguistic analysis to examine the construction of diverse white identities it will be welcomed by researchers and students in linguistics anthropology ethnic studies and education

Becoming Women Carla Rice, 2014-02-24 In a culture where beauty is currency women's bodies are often perceived as measures of value and worth The search for visibility and self acceptance can be daunting especially for those on the cultural margins of beauty Becoming Women offers a thoughtful examination of the search for identity in an image oriented world That search is told through the experiences of a group of women who came of age in the wake of second and third wave feminism featuring voices from marginalized and misrepresented groups Carla Rice pairs popular imagery with personal narratives to expose the culture of contradiction where increases in individual body acceptance have been matched by even more restrictive feminine image ideals and norms With insider insights from the Dove Campaign for Real Beauty Rice exposes the beauty industry's colonization of women's bodies and examines why the beauty myth has yet to be resolved      Third Party Sex Work and Pimps in the Age of Anti-trafficking Amber Horning, Anthony Marcus, 2017-01-03 This volume is a compilation of new original qualitative and ethnographic research on pimps and other third party facilitators of commercial sex from the developed and developing world From African American pimps in the United States and Eastern European migrants in Germany to Brazilian cafet os and cafetinas this volume features the lives and voices of the men and women who enable diverse and culturally distinct sex markets around the world In scholarly popular and policy making discourses such individuals are typically viewed as larger than life hustlers violent predators and brutal exploiters However there is actually very little empirical research based knowledge about how pimps and third party facilitators actually live labor and make meaning in their everyday lives Nearly all previous knowledge derives from hearsay and post hoc reporting from ex sex workers customers police and government agents neighbors and self aggrandizing fictionalized memoirs This volume is the first published compilation of empirically researched data and analysis about pimps and third parties working in the sex trade across the globe Situated in an age of highly punitive and ubiquitous global anti trafficking law it challenges highly charged public policy stereotypes that conflate pimping and sex trafficking in order to understand the lived experience of pimps and the men and women whose work they facilitate
