Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices

Jack Andersen, Joacim Hansson, 2025-07-15 The contributions in Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices analyse various aspects of classification and their importance to contemporary debates surrounding cultural heritage and information access. Specific focus is on systems of classification, media technologies and cultural institutions such as libraries, archives and museums and how they respond to challenges including classificatory bias, truth, neutrality, institutional tradition and technological innovation. Raising awareness of classification practices in modern culture serves to emphasize how sorting things into categories is both an everyday accomplishment and a highly cultural and political activity with consequences for those who are classified and for those who classify. Throughout this book, classification is defined as the practice and activity of systematically ordering and categorizing entities to bring structure and understanding to diverse contexts. This book addresses several timely issues both in terms of theoretical advancement and empirical diversity. The scholarly discussion on the classification and organization of knowledge has developed with digital technologies from a bibliographic paradigm into something much wider as the need for metadata and classification has become critical for usability and legitimacy. This development has also led research on classification and knowledge organization to confront a new post-humanist reality with not only emerging varieties of information currents in society but also the development of new theoretical and methodological strands such as post-colonial and intersectional perspectives and digital humanities methodologies. In doing so, this book seeks to address critical questions for the archives, library and museum sectors concerning the organization of information. Exploring Contemporary Classification Practices will therefore be of interest to academics, researchers and practitioners with interests in library and information science, archives, cultural heritage and digital heritage.

Learning Outside the Primary Classroom Fred Sedgwick, 2012-05-31 We believe that every young person should experience the world beyond the classroom as an essential part of learning and personal development whatever their age, ability or circumstances. Learning outside the classroom is about raising achievement through an organised, powerful approach to learning in which direct experience is of prime importance. LOTC Initiative manifesto. In Learning Outside the Primary Classroom, the educationalist and writer Fred Sedgwick explores in a practical way the many opportunities for intense learning that children and teachers can find outside the confines of the usual learning environment, the classroom. This original work is based on tried and tested methods from UK primary schools. The author draws on current concerns in the educational world regarding outdoor learning as exemplified by the eight sector Learning Outside the Classroom (LOtC) initiative supported by Ofsted but remains refreshingly independent in approach. Using a metaphor of concentric circles, Learning Outside the Primary Classroom starts with a brief opening chapter based in the classroom itself before moving outwards to explore the learning possibilities presented by the immediate environs of the school: playgrounds, gym, halls, sports fields etc. Later chapters move beyond the school gates to explore the local shops, parks, religious centres, libraries and town halls and the myriad learning opportunities they represent The final chapters explore the possibilities of larger scale day trips to major galleries and museums and more ambitious field trips The Arts and Emergent Bilingual Youth Sharon Verner Chappell,Christian J. Faltis,2013-04-17 The Arts and Emergent Bilingual Youth offers a critical sociopolitical perspective on working with emerging bilingual youth at the intersection of the arts and language learning Utilizing research from both arts and language education to explore the ways they work in tandem to contribute to emergent bilingual students language and academic development the book analyzes model arts projects to raise questions about best practices for and with marginalized bilingual young people in terms of relevance to their languages cultures and communities as they envision better worlds A central assumption is that the arts can be especially valuable for contributing to English learning by enabling learners to experience ideas patterns and relationship form in ways that lead to new knowledge content Each chapter features vignettes showcasing current projects with ELL populations both in and out of school and visual art pieces and poems to prompt reflection on key issues and relevant concepts and theories in the arts and language learning Taking a stance about language and culture in English learners lives this book shows the intimate connections among art narrative and resistance for addressing topics of social injustice Concordance to the Complete Works Sangharakshita,2024-11-26 With elements of index dictionary encyclopaedia concordance and collection of quotations this volume has been designed to act as a comprehensive and accessible guide to the whole of Sangharakshita s Complete Works The Artists Monthly ,1925
