Lectures On Clinical Psychiatry:

Lectures on Clinical Psychiatry Emil Kraepelin ,2014-05-18 All those who have at any time given clinical demonstrations on disease must have felt the desire to impress more firmly on their hearers the remembrance of what they have seen than is possible in an ordinary lecture After many attempts to arrive at this in some other way I have now tried to preserve in a measure the impressions of a term s clinical work in the form of the lectures contained in the following pages In my descriptions I have endeavoured as far as possible to follow the actual course of the lectures Naturally not only must this work give up all claim to the actual presentation of the patients for which the student can only be compensated by personal experience in the hospital but we must also forego the great help to teaching afforded by the assistant s little awkwardnesses and blunders which so often serve to point out to the teacher the right method of instruction On the other hand the material can in this way be worked up more concisely more systematically and more completely than is generally possible in the hospital In these lectures I have always kept the diagnostic point of view in the foreground being convinced of its fundamental importance not only to our scientific ideas but also as affecting the advice we shall have to give in our medical practice and the methods of treatment to be adopted by us In my opinion what the student ought to learn in the hospital besides the examination of patients is not text book knowledge which he can acquire just as well or better at home but how to turn his observations to account and the careful judgment of any given case These lectures then must not in any way be looked upon as a textbook of alienism Their aim will be far better attained if they prove of some value as a guide to the clinical investigation of the insane The examples of disease which for obvious reasons have been taken from entirely separate years and some of which have been utilized elsewhere do not profess in their brief outline to be scientific records Nevertheless each individual case is delineated with the greatest possible truth to life while the diagnostic developments are almost entirely taken directly from notes upon clinical demonstrations Inquiries as to the further history of the patients were carried on as far as possible up to going to press and for the most part were only added after the whole was complete This classic includes the following chapters I Introduction Melancholia II Depressed Stages of Maniacal Depressive Insanity Circular Stupor III Dementia Praecox IV Katatonic Stupor V States of Depression in General Paralysis VI Epileptic Insanity VII Maniacal Excitement VIII Mixed Conditions of Maniacal Depressive Insanity IX Katatonic Excitement X Megalomania in General Paralysis XI Alcoholic Mental Disturbances XII Insanity in Acute Diseases XIII Varieties of Delirium XIV Puerperal Insanity XV Paranoia or Progressive Systematized Insanity XVI Paranoid Forms of Dementia Praecox XVII Different Forms of Delusions XVIII Chronic Alcoholism XIX Morphinism and Cocainism XX Final Stages of General Paralysis of the Insane XXI Final Stages of Dementia Praecox XXII Dementia From Coarse Brain Lesions XXIII Senile Dementia XXIV Epileptic Feeble Mindedness XXV Hysterical Insanity XXVI Insanity After Injuries to the Head XXVII Irrepressible Ideas and Irresistible Fears XXVIII Congenital States of Disease XXIX Morbid Personalities XXX Morbid Criminals and Vagabonds XXXI Imbecility Idiocy
