C. Young,2015-07-08 Excerpt from Lectures on Scots Law Delivered Under the Auspices of the Stirlingshire Faculty of Solicitors and Procurators in February March and April 1889 In it was enacted that it should no longer be necessary to proceed to the lands or to perform any act of infeftment thereon but that sasine should be given by producing to a notary the warrants of sasine and expeding and recording an instrument of sasine In the case of burgage subjects it was made optional to give sasine within the Council Chambers of the burgh by delivery of a pen This was truly the introduction of symbolical possession a mere symbol standing in the place of a fact The giving of earth and stone on the ground of the lands is improperly spoken of as symbolical delivery It was real actual and corporal delivery and the piece of earth or stone was really a part of the whole It may be instructive at this point to note the close historical analogy between the English law of real property and our own as bearing on the law of possession About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Who's who in Scotland Carrick Media,1986 Who's who in Scotland ,1994 Dod's
