Becker, 2007-08-05 I Remember one of French writer Georges Perec s most famous pieces consists of 480 numbered paragraphs each just a few short lines recalling a memory from his childhood The work has neither a beginning nor an end Nor does it contain any analysis But it nonetheless reveals profound truths about French society during the 1940s and 50s Taking Perec s book as its cue Telling About Society explores the unconventional ways we communicate what we know about society to others The third in distinguished teacher Howard Becker s best selling series of writing guides for social scientists the book explores the many ways knowledge about society can be shared and interpreted through different forms of telling fiction films photographs maps even mathematical models many of which remain outside the boundaries of conventional social science Eight case studies including the photographs of Walker Evans the plays of George Bernard Shaw the novels of Jane Austen and Italo Calvino and the sociology of Erving Goffman provide convincing support for Becker s argument that every way of telling about society is perfect for some purpose The trick is as Becker notes to discover what purpose is served by doing it this way rather than that With Becker s

Lewis, 2017-09-29 At the beginning of the twentieth century, Britain was amongst the world leaders in the production of machine tools; yet by the 1980s the industry was in terminal decline. Focusing on the example of Britain's largest machine tool maker, Alfred Herbert Ltd of Coventry, this study charts the wider fortunes of this vital part of the manufacturing sector. Taking a chronological approach, the book explores how during the late nineteenth century the industry developed a reputation for excellence throughout the world, before the challenges of two world wars necessitated drastic changes and reorganisations. Despite meeting these challenges and emerging with confidence into the post-war marketplace, the British machine tool industry never regained its pre-eminent position and increasingly lost ground to foreign competition. By using the example of Alfred Herbert Ltd to illuminate the broader economic and business history of the British machine tool industry, this study not only provides a valuable insight into British manufacturing but also contributes to the ongoing debates surrounding Britain's alleged decline as a manufacturing nation. Forging, Stamping, Heat Treating ,1920 The steam engine user, practical descriptions and illustrations of the stationary steam engine in its various forms, together with descriptions and illustrations of heat prime movers other than the steam engine, by various writers, ed. and arranged by R.S.
