Hierarchical Object Representations in the Visual Cortex and Computer Vision Antonio

Rodríguez-Sánchez, Mazyar Fallah, Ales Leonardis, 2016-06-08 Over the past 40 years neurobiology and computational neuroscience has proved that deeper understanding of visual processes in humans and non human primates can lead to important advancements in computational perception theories and systems One of the main difficulties that arises when designing automatic vision systems is developing a mechanism that can recognize or simply find an object when faced with all the possible variations that may occur in a natural scene with the ease of the primate visual system The area of the brain in primates that is dedicated at analyzing visual information is the visual cortex The visual cortex performs a wide variety of complex tasks by means of simple operations These seemingly simple operations are applied to several layers of neurons organized into a hierarchy the layers representing increasingly complex abstract intermediate processing stages In this Research Topic we propose to bring together current efforts in neurophysiology and computer vision in order 1 To understand how the visual cortex encodes an object from a starting point where neurons respond to lines bars or edges to the representation of an object at the top of the hierarchy that is invariant to illumination size location viewpoint rotation and robust to occlusions and clutter and 2 How the design of automatic vision systems benefit from that knowledge to get closer

Compendium of Neurosymbolic Artificial Intelligence Md Kamruzzaman Sarker,Aaron Eberhart,2023-08-15 If only it were possible to develop automated and trainable neural systems that could justify their behavior in a way that could be interpreted by humans like a symbolic system The field of Neurosymbolic AI aims to combine two disparate approaches to AI symbolic reasoning and neural or connectionist approaches such as Deep Learning The quest to unite these two types of AI has led to the development of many innovative techniques which extend the boundaries of both disciplines This book Compendium of Neurosymbolic Artificial Intelligence presents 30 invited papers which explore various approaches to defining and developing a successful system to combine these two methods Each strategy has clear advantages and disadvantages with the aim of most being to find some useful middle ground between the rigid transparency of symbolic systems and the more flexible yet highly opaque neural applications The papers are organized by theme with the first four being overviews or surveys of the field These are followed by papers covering neurosymbolic reasoning neurosymbolic architectures various aspects of Deep Learning and finally two chapters on natural language processing All papers were reviewed internally before publication The book is intended to follow and extend the work of the previous book Neuro symbolic artificial intelligence The state of the art IOS Press 2021 which laid out the breadth of the field at that time Neurosymbolic AI is a young field which is still being actively defined and explored and this book will be of interest to those working in AI research and development MATRIX MODEL 3/E L. can operate outside the conscious awareness Primary types of emotions are found in animals while secondary more complex types are involved in interpersonal relationships Emotions both influence genetic repair mechanisms of individuals and are responsible for group behavior Many scholars and scientists believe that no scientific or philosophic account of consciousness can be complete without an understanding of the role of emotion Present and Future of EMDR in Clinical Psychology and Psychotherapy Benedikt L.
