The Proud Decades John P.

Diggins,1988 What happens when public figures private selves are put forth for examination by public audiences How do the personal struggles of music artists specifically those with immigrant backgrounds compare to the private struggles of other individuals At a time when many countries in the European Union experience an increase in far right political party activities how do individuals from the margins negotiate new ways of thinking about identity offering hope for greater understanding of shared struggles across societies This book offers interpretations of identity and belonging by examining the work of two music artists Faudel Belloua from France and Adam Tensta from Sweden By analyzing texts produced by these individuals I argue that ongoing engagement with the materials produced by Belloua and Tensta a process which I refer to as living biography presents a unique window into the process of how Belloua and Tensta connect personal struggles to public issues providing a compelling departure point for further discussions on how interpretations of national identity are changing in France and Sweden and beyond

Starting at Home Nel Noddings,2002-01-28 Nel Noddings one of the central figures in the contemporary discussion of ethics and moral education argues that caring a way of life learned at home can be extended into a theory that guides social policy Tackling issues such as capital punishment drug treatment homelessness mental illness and abortion Noddings inverts traditional philosophical priorities to show how an ethic of care can have profound and compelling implications for social and political thought Instead of beginning with an ideal state and then describing a role for home and family this book starts with an ideal home and asks how what is learned there may be extended to the larger social domain Noddings examines the tension between freedom and equality that characterized liberal thought in the twentieth century and finds that for all its strengths liberalism is still inadequate as social policy She suggests instead that an attitude of attentive love in the home induces a corresponding responsiveness that can serve as a foundation for social policy With her characteristic sensitivity to the individual and to the vulnerable in society the author concludes that any corrective practice that does more harm than the behavior it is aimed at correcting should be abandoned This suggests an end to the disastrous war on drugs In addition Noddings states that the caring professions that deal with the homeless should be guided by flexible policies that allow practitioners to respond adequately to the needs of very different clients She recommends that the school curriculum should include serious preparation for home life as well as for professional and civic life Emphasizing the importance of improving life in everyday homes and the possible role social policy might play in this improvement Starting at Home highlights the inextricable link between the development of care in individual lives and any discussion of moral life and social policy
