The SAGE Handbook of Research Management Robert Dingwall, Mary Byrne McDonnell, 2015-08-17 The Handbook of Research Management is a unique tool for the newly promoted research leader Larger scale projects are becoming more common throughout the social sciences and humanities housed in centres institutes and programmes Talented researchers find themselves faced with new challenges to act as managers and leaders rather than as individual scholars They are responsible for the careers and professional development of others and for managing interactions with university administrations and external stakeholders Although many scientific and technological disciplines have long been organized in this way few resources have been created to help new leaders understand their roles and responsibilities and to reflect on their practice This Handbook has been created by the combined experience of a leading social scientist and a chief executive of a major international research development institution and funder The editors have recruited a truly global team of contributors to write about the challenges they have encountered in the course of their careers and to provoke readers to think about how they might respond within their own contexts This book will be a standard work of reference for new research leaders in any discipline or country looking for help and inspiration The editorial commentaries extend its potential use in support of training events or workshops where groups of new leaders can come together and explore the issues that are confronting them

Higher Education and the Creative Economy Roberta Comunian, Abigail Gilmore, 2016-03-10 Since the DCMS Creative Industries Mapping Document highlighted the key role played by creative activities in the UK economy and society the creative industries agenda has expanded across Europe and internationally They have the support of local authorities regional development agencies research councils arts and cultural agencies and other sector organisations Within this framework higher education institutions have also engaged in the creative agenda but have struggled to define their role in this growing sphere of activities Higher Education and the Creative Economy critically engages with the complex interconnections between higher education geography cultural policy and the creative economy This book is organised into four sections which articulate the range of dynamics that can emerge between higher education and the creative economy partnership and collaboration across Higher Education institutions and the creative and cultural industries the development of creative human capital connections between arts schools and local art scenes and links with broader policy directions and work Chapter 9 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 3 0 license

Collaborative Creative Thought and Practice in Music Margaret S. Barrett, 2016-05-23 The notion of the individual creator a product in part of the Western romantic ideal is now troubled by accounts and explanations of creativity as a social construct While in collectivist cultures the assimilation but not the denial of individual authorship into the complexities of group production and benefit has been a feature the notion of the lone individual creator has been persistent Systems theories acknowledge the role of others yet at heart these are still individual views of creativity focusing on the creative individual drawing upon the work of others rather than recognizing the mutually constitutive elements of social interactions across time and space Focusing on the domain of music the approach taken in this book falls into three sections investigations of the people processes products and places of collaborative creativity in compositional thought and practice explorations of the ways in which creative collaboration provides a means of crossing boundaries between disciplines such as music performance and musicology and studies of the emergence of creative thought and practice in educational contexts including that of the composer and the classroom The volume concludes with an extended chapter that reflects on the ways in which the studies reported advance understandings of creative thought and practice The book provides new perspectives to our understandings of the role of collaborative thought and processes in creative work across the domain of music including composition musicology performance music education and music psychology Evaluating Collaboration Networks in Higher Education Research Denise Leite, Isabel Pinho, 2016-11-23 This book identifies key factors that drive the development and improvement of higher education research in emerging and advanced economies In an increasingly interconnected world knowledge production supported by strong research is a channel for the development of nations The authors of this book argue that in order to drive knowledge production leaders must strive to improve their understanding of how global research networks interact with one another especially from the perspective of internationalization This book is a useful resource for higher education researchers interested in knowledge production and dissemination as well as academic leaders and practitioners students and leaders interested in public administration policies and management Research

Companion to Applied Musicology Chris Dromey, 2023-09-19 The Routledge Companion to Applied Musicology brings together academics artist researchers and practitioners to provide readers with an extensive and authoritative overview of applied musicology Once a field that addressed music's socio political or performative contexts applied musicology today encompasses study and practice in areas as diverse as psychology ecomusicology organology forensic musicology music therapy health and well being and other public oriented musicologies These rapid advances have created a fast changing field whose scholarship and activities tend to take place in isolation from each other This volume addresses that shortcoming bringing together a wide ranging survey of current approaches Featuring 39 authors The Routledge Companion to Applied Musicology falls into five parts Defining and Theorising Applied Musicology Public Engagement New Approaches and Research Methods Representation and Inclusion and Musicology in for Performance that chronicle the subject s rich history and consider the connections that will characterise its future The book offers an essential resource for anyone exploring applied musicology Collaboration, Communities and Competition Samuel Dent,Laura Lane,Tony Strike,2017-08-25

Higher Education providers face enormous challenges in an increasingly competitive and globalised environment It is perhaps obvious to those engaged in teaching and research that academia is both a competitive and a collaborative endeavour Many national systems now assume in their legal or governance frameworks competitive rather than co operative behaviour and increasingly regulate based on that assumption Institutional leaders and educators wrestle with the issues around the commoditisation of learning and the pressure to treat students as customers In tandem students themselves are experiencing cuts in public financing and a transfer of the cost burden to them as the perceived private beneficiaries of a product This book asks whether there is an alternative approach to this now transnational competitive logic Can collaboration and partnership re emerge as an antidote to the consumerist and competitive approaches taken by governments toward regulating their higher education systems The question of competition collaboration and community is addressed here at three levels of analysis The macro level or the international system level observes competition and collaboration between countries and between institutions The meso level includes competition and collaboration between academics and students and at inter and intra disciplinary levels across organisational boundaries Finally competition and collaboration at the micro level considers the interface between individual academics and between academics and students as learners Evaluation of Online Higher Education Ana Balula,António Moreira,2014-05-27 The work presents a theoretical framework for the evaluation of e Teaching that aims at positioning the online activities designed and developed by the teacher as to the Learning Interaction and Technology Dimensions The theoretical research that underlies the study was developed reflecting current thinking on the promotion of quality of teaching and of the integration of information and communication tools into the curriculum in Higher Education HE i e bearing in mind some European guidelines and policies on this subject This way an answer was sought to be given to one of the aims put forward in this study namely to contribute towards the development of a conceptual framework to support research on evaluation of e teaching in the context of HE Based on the theoretical research carried out an evaluation tool SCAI was designed which integrates the two questionnaires developed to collect the teachers and the students perceptions regarding the development of e activities Consequently an empirical study was structured and carried out allowing SCAI tool to be tested and validated in real cases From the comparison of the theoretical framework established and the analysis of the data obtained we found that the differences in teaching should be valued and seen as assets by HE institutions rather than annihilated in a globalizing perspective

Knowledge Production in European Universities Kwiek Marek, 2012-11-23 The book studies transformations of European universities in the context of globalization and Europeanization the questioning of the foundations of the Golden Age of the Keynesian welfare state public sector reforms demographic changes the massification and diversification of higher education and the emergence of knowledge economies Such phenomena as academic entrepreneurialism and diversified channels of knowledge exchange in European universities are linked to transformations of the state and changes in public sector services The first contextual part of the book studies the changing state university relationships and the second empirically informed part draws from several recent large scale comparative European research projects Innovación Educativa en el
