1. Cost is the amount of cash or cash equivalent sacrificed for goods and/or services that are expected to bring a current or future benefit to the organization. An expense is an expired cost; the benefit has been used up.
2. Accumulating costs is the way that costs are measured and recorded. Assigning costs is linking costs to some cost object. For example, a company accumulates or tracks costs by entering them into the general ledger accounts. Direct materials would be entered into the materials account; direct labor would be entered into the direct labor account. Then, these costs are assigned to units of product.
3. A cost object is something for which you want to know the cost. For example, a cost object may be the human resources department of a company. The costs related to that cost object might include salaries of employees of that department, telephone costs for that department, and depreciation on office equipment. Another example is a customer group of a company. Atlantic City and Las Vegas casinos routinely treat heavy gamblers to free rooms, food, and drink. The casino owners know the benefits yielded by these high rollers and need to know the costs of keeping them happy, such as the opportunity cost of lost revenue from the rooms, the cost of the food, and so on.
4. A direct cost is one that can be traced to the cost object, typically by physical observation. An indirect cost cannot be traced easily and accurately to the cost object. The same cost can be direct
