Covering the Courts Robert Giles, 2017-09-25 Covering the Courts shows how writers and journalists deal with present day major trials such as those involving Timothy McVeigh and O J Simpson The volume features such outstanding contributors as Linda Deutsch and Fred Graham and provides an in depth look at the performance of the court in an age of heightened participation by reporters camera operators social scientists major moguls of network radio and television and advocates of special causes The volume does far more than discuss specific cases Indeed it is a major tool in the study of the new relationships between a free press and a fair trial Interestingly a consensus is described in which the parties involved in efforts to balance freedom of the press and the right to a fair trial are moving in tandem In this regard sensitive issues ranging from the universality of law to the particularity of racial religious and gender claims are explored with great candor The volume also turns the intellectual discourse to its major players the members of the press the lawyers and the judiciary Has there been a shift from reporting functions to entertainment values Does television and live presentation shift the burden from the contents of a case to the photogenic and star quality of players What excites and intrigues the public serious disturbances to the peace and mass mayhem such as the Oklahoma bombings or sexual adventures of entertainment and sports figures The findings are sometimes disturbing but the reading is never dull This book will be of interest to journalists lawyers and the interested general public This volume is the latest in the Transaction Media Studies Series edited by Everette E Dennis dean of the school of communication at Fordham University The volume itself is edited by Robert Giles the editor and Robert W Snyder the managing editor of Media Studies Journal The original contributions were initially presented at The Freedom Forum and its Media Studies Center

Telecommunications Structure and Management in the Executive Branch of Government 1900-1970 Thomas E. Will, 2019-07-16 In early 1970 President Richard M Nixon created a new executive office the Office of Telecommunications Policy OTP and appointed Dr Clay T Whitehead as OTP s first director Whitehead had previously been on the staff of Peter Flanigan a presidential assistant responsible for telecommunications policy at the White House What was the motivation behind this action Were political interests being served With what results Thomas Will believes that these and other questions must be raised in view of the history of the Nixon administration In an attempt to answer them he examines the development of telecommunications policy in the executive branch from 1900 to 1970 Dr Will reviews the early executive branch involvement in radio telecommunications the Radio Act of 1927 and the Communications Act of 1934 the technological advance of radio telecommunications and its effect on the executive branch before and after World War II the appointments of telecommunications advisors to presidents from 1951 to 1967 and the creation of the President s Task Force in 1967 to deal with the problems created by an inherently limited radio spectrum He traces the steps taken to create the OTP and analyzes the extent to which the office reflected a traditional progression of executive branch telecommunications authority His study and conclusions are directly and essentially relevant to the current debate on telecommunications policy

Broadcast Indecency Jeremy H. Lipschultz, 2023-12-22 Broadcast Indecency 1997 treats broadcast indecency as more than a simple regulatory problem in American law The author's approach cuts across legal social and economic concerns taking the view that media law and regulation cannot be seen within a vacuum that ignores cultural realities It treats broadcast as a phenomenon challenging the policy approach of government regulation and is an exploration of the political and social processes involved in the government control of mass media content

Domestic Satellite/h Robert S. Magnant, 2019-03-07 In a society where as much as 50 percent of the gross national product is spent on information transfer services trends in communications policy and capabilities become extremely important and can have major consequences During the past ten years the Federal Communications Commission has made a major effort to promote competition and innovation in the telecommunications industry But in order that public interests be identified and adequately served there must be a wider understanding of the industry and the issues Robert Magnant takes full account of the multidisciplinary nature of the telecommunications field and in this book presents an objective treatment of technological trends policy issues and market constraints His study has been designed to provide intelligible easily accessible information for the legislator the business leader the concerned citizen It deals with the specific area of telecommunications but in its complete coverage of a major domestic policy issue it is at the same time an excellent case study to illuminate the intricacies and options in the formulation and operation both of general government and business policy and more specifically regulated market structures

Scrambling for Protection Patrick M. Garry, 2010-11-23 In our age of media revolutions Patrick M Garry offers guidelines for constitutionally redefining the press and maintains that the First Amendment press clause must broaden the scope of its freedoms to include the communication activities of a much larger public
