Geographic Information Science George Cho, 2005-09-27 Spatial information users and providers are increasingly concerned about the legal implications relating to the use and dissemination of geographic information for which there are no right or wrong methods of practice and no one source of information This book fills the gap by addressing key issues in contract law intellectual property law rights and responsibilities and liability as they relate to the GI community The first book to interpret the law relating to GI Science and outline its implications to a general readership Provides a comprehensive discourse in law and GI Science irrespective of jurisdiction Offers a global perspective throughout with case materials coming from the UK North America the EU and Australasia

Islands in Geography, Law, and Literature Chiara Battisti, Sidia Fiorato, Matteo Nicolini, Thomas Perrin, 2022-04-04 This collection explores the heterogeneous places we have traditionally been taught to term islands It stages a conversation on the very idea of island ness thus contributing to a new field of research at the crossroads of law geography literature urban planning politics arts and cultural studies The contributions to this volume discuss the notion of island ness as a device triggering the imagination triggering narratives and representations in different creative fields they explore the interactions between legal socio political and fictional approaches to remoteness and the state of insularity policy responses to both remoteness and boundaries on different scales and the insular legal framing of geographical remoteness The product of a cross disciplinary exchange on islands this edited volume will be of great interest to those working in the fields of Island Studies as well as literary studies scholars geographers and legal scholars

Geopolitics at the End of the Twentieth Century Nurit Kliot, David Newman, 2013-11-05 An excellent examination of how the collapse of the Soviet Union and the impact of globalization have brought about changes not only to the territorial configuration sovereignty of states and their boundaries but also to traditional notions of state boundaries sovereignty and social order These essays focus on the key regional and geopolitical characteristics of this global reordering with an emphasis on Eastern Europe and South Asia They discuss the territorial reordering which is taking place at the level of the state as boundaries are redemarcated in line with ethno territorial demands as borders are transversed by the movement of peoples information and finance and as the lines of territorial demarcation are perceived not only in terms of their fixed characteristics but as part of a process through which regional and ethnic identities continue to be formed and reformed Each section ends with articles which focus on literature on geopolitics and boundaries This is an invaluable addition to our understanding of contemporary world affairs How India Became Territorial Itty Abraham,2014-08-20

Why do countries go to war over disputed lands Why do they fight even when the territories in question are economically and strategically worthless Drawing on critical approaches to international relations political geography international law and social history and based on a close examination of the Indian experience during the twentieth century Itty Abraham addresses these important questions and offers a new conceptualization of foreign policy as a state territorializing practice Identifying the contested process of decolonization as the root of contemporary Asian inter state territorial conflicts he explores the political implications of establishing a fixed territorial homeland as a necessary starting point for both international recognition and national identity concluding that disputed lands are important because of their intimate identification with the legitimacy of the postcolonial nation state rather than because of their potential for economic gains or their place in historic grievances By treating Indian diaspora policy and geopolitical practice as exemplars of foreign policy behavior Abraham demonstrates how their intersection offers an entirely new way of understanding India s vexed relations with Pakistan and China This approach offers a new and productive way of thinking about foreign policy and inter state conflicts over territory in Asia one that is non U S and non European focused that has a number of implications for regional security and for foreign policy practices in the contemporary postcolonial world Special Warfare Area Handbook for Cuba American University (Washington, D.C.). Foreign Areas Studies Division,1961 Ch. 1. The context of Census 2000. Ch. 2. Planning the Census. Ch. 3. Population and Housing questions. Ch. 4. The partnership and marketing program. Ch. 5. Data collection. Ch. 6. Data Capture and processing ,2009 Circular ,1961 Manufacturing Culture Meric S. Gertler,2004-02-19 Recent years have seen a lively debate over the role of tacit knowledge and interactive learning in privileging the local over the global Yet our continuing inability to answer questions such as when and why is the local important in production and innovation processes indicates that our understanding of the firm and the forces that shape its managers choices remains weak Such a theory ought to be able to answer fundamental questions like why do firms in particular places adopt particular production and innovation practices and not others What forces determine what a firm knows and when it is able to act upon this knowledge How easy is it to transfer this knowledge between places This book presents a new conception of industrial practice and firm behaviour It explains how the cultures that shape the practices of firms and the trajectories of regional and national economies are actually produced The analysis shows how the internal and inter firm organization of production use of technologies and the industrial knowledge underpinning these practices are strongly influenced by their social and institutional context Routine forms of behaviour are not simply inherited from past practice Instead they are shaped and constrained though not wholly determined by a set of institutions that govern how work is organized workers are deployed and technology is implemented Because of the slowly evolving nature of these institutions distinctive national models are not converging around a single global norm Colonial Survey and Native Landscapes in Rural South Africa, 1850 - 1913 Lindsay F. Braun, 2014-10-16 In Colonial Survey and Native Landscapes in Rural South Africa 1850 1913 Lindsay Frederick Braun explores the technical processes and struggles surrounding the creation and maintenance of boundaries and spaces in South Africa in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The precision of surveyors and other colonial technicians lent these enterprises an illusion of irreproachable objectivity and authority even though the reality was far messier Using a wide range of archival and printed materials from survey departments repositories and libraries the author presents two distinct episodes of struggle over lands and livelihoods one from the Eastern Cape and one from the former northern Transvaal These cases expose the contingencies contests and negotiations that fundamentally shaped these changing South African landscapes
