Monserud,Richard W. Haynes,Adelaide C. Johnson,2013-04-17 Public debate has stimulated interest in finding greater compatibility among forest management regimes The debate has often portrayed management choices as tradeoffs between biophysical and socioeconomic components of ecosystems Here we focus on specific management strategies and emphasize broad goals such as biodiversity wood production and habitat conservation while maintaining other values from forestlands desired by the public We examine the following proposition Commodity production timber nontimber forest products and the other forest values biodiversity fish and wildlife habitat can be simultaneously produced from the same area in a socially acceptable manner Based on recent research in the Pacific Northwest we show there are alternatives for managing forest ecosystems that avoid the divisive arena of either or choices Much of the work discussed in this book addresses two aspects of the compatibility issue First how are various forest management practices related to an array of associated goods and services Second how do different approaches to forest management affect relatively large and complex ecosystems
