Cambridge History of Latin American Literature Roberto Gonzalez Echevarría, Enrique Pupo-Walker,1996-09-19 The Cambridge History of Latin American Literature is by far the most comprehensive work of its kind ever written Its three volumes cover the whole sweep of Latin American literature including Brazilian from pre Colombian times to the present and contain chapters on Latin American writing in the USA Volume 3 is devoted partly to the history of Brazilian literature from the earliest writing through the colonial period and the Portuguese language traditions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and partly also to an extensive bibliographical section in which annotated reading lists relating to the chapters in all three volumes of The Cambridge History of Latin American Literature are presented These bibliographies are a unique feature of the History further enhancing its immense value as a reference work Creating Context in Andean Cultures

Rosaleen Howard-Malverde, 1997-04-24 A major concern in current anthropological thinking is that the method of recording or translating into writing a society's cultural expressions dance rituals pottery the social use of space et al cannot help but fundamentally alter the meaning of the living words and deeds of the culture in question Consequently recent researchers have developed more dialogic methods for collecting interpreting and presenting data These new techniques have yielded much success for anthropologists working in Latin America especially in their efforts to understand how economically politically and socially subordinated groups use culture and language to resist the dominant national culture and to assert a distinct historical identity This collection addresses these issues of texts and textuality as it explores various Latin American languages and cultures Latin American Indian Literatures Journal, 1985 The Colonial Andes Elena

Phipps, Johanna Hecht, Cristina Esteras Martín, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2004 The arrival of the Spanish in South America in 1532 permanently transformed the Andean cultural landscape Within a generation societies that had developed over thousands of years including the great Inca Empire had been irrevocably altered The arts from the Spanish colonial period those that drew on native traditions such as textiles silver woodwork and stonework as well as painting sculpture and other genres introduced by the Spanish preserve an unspoken dialogue that developed between Andean and European modes of expression This beautiful book presents silver objects textiles and other masterpieces of colonial Andean culture Essays discuss the artistry of this culture and explain how it has been recently reevaluated and celebrated for its vibrant energy reflecting the convergence of two essentially distinct cultural traditions This book accompanies an exhibition at The Metropolitan Museum of Art September 29 to December 12 2004 Elena Phipps is conservator Textile Conservation and Johanna Hecht is associate curator European Sculpture and Decorative Arts at The Metropolitan Museum of Art

Indigenous Responses to Western Christianity Steven Kaplan, 1995 For over five hundred years since the great age of exploration Western Christians have visited traded with conquered and colonized large parts of the non Western world In virtually every case this contact has been accompanied by an attempt to spread Christianity This volume explores the manner in which Western missionary Christianity has been shaped and transformed through contact with the peoples of Peru Mexico Africa India Sri Lanka Thailand China and Japan Indigenous Responses to Western Christianity demonstrates how local populations who initially encountered Christianity as a mixture of religion culture politics ethics and technology selected those elements they felt suited their needs The conversion of the local population the volume shows was usually accompanied by a significant indigenization of Christianity Through the detailed examination and comparison of events in a range of countries and cultures this book points provides a deeper understanding of mission history and the dynamics of Christianity s expansion The encounter with Western Christianity is vital to the history of contact between Western and non Western civilizations Western Christians have visited traded with conquered and colonized large parts of the non Western world for over five hundred years and their migration has almost always been accompanied by an attempt to create new Christians in new lands Just as indigenous people have been converted however so too has Christianity become variously indigenized Local populations initially encounter a Christian package of religion culture politics ethics and technology This volume illustrates the ways in which peoples have selected elements of this package to suit their specific needs and so explores the myriad transformations missionary Christianity has undergone through contact with the peoples of Peru Mexico Africa India Sri Lanka Thailand China and Japan Contributing are Erik Cohen University of Jerusalem Yochanan Bar Yafe Szeminski John F Howes D Dennis Hudson Daniel H Bays University of Kansas and Eric Van Young University of California San Diego The chapters are linked by their attempt to overcome conventional regional and disciplinary barriers in order to achieve a deeper understanding of mission history and the dynamics of the expansion of Christianity A remarkable work this volume will pave the way for entirely new approaches to a particularly complex and demanding subject

Unrequited Conquests Roland Greene,1999 Love poetry dominated European literature during the Renaissance Its attitudes conventions and values appeared not only in courtly settings but also in the transatlantic world where cultures were being built power exercised and policies made In this major contribution to our understanding of both the Age of Exploration and early modern lyric Roland Greene argues that love poetry was not simply a reflection of the times but a means of cultural transformation European encounters with the Americas awakened many forms of desire which pervaded the writings of explorers like Columbus and his contemporaries These experiences in turn shaped colonial society in Brazil Peru and elsewhere The New World while it could be explored conquered and exploited could never really be known leaving Europe s desire continually unrequited and the project of empire unfulfilled Using numerous poetic examples and extensive historical documentation Unrequited Conquests rewrites the relations between the Renaissance and colonial Latin America and between poetry and history

Inventing America José Rabasa, 1993 In Inventing America José Rabasa presents the view that Columbus's historic act was not a discovery and still less an encounter Rather he considers it the beginning of a process of inventing a New World in the sixteenth century European consciousness The notion of America as a European invention challenges the popular conception of the New World as a natural entity to be discovered or understood however imperfectly This book aims to debunk complacency with the historic geographic and cartographic rudiments underlying our present picture of the world

Humanities, 1987 Humanities National Endowment for the Humanities, 1987 Andean Cosmologies Through Time Robert V.H. Dover, Katharine E. Seibold, John Holmes McDowell, 1992-06-22 Concerned with Andean cosmology both as the manifestation of a system of belief and as a way of thinking or worldview that orders the social environment this volume advances an explanation of why Andean indigenous communities are still recognizably Andean after a half millennium of forced exposure to Western systems of thought and belief Dealing with cultural authenticity in an Andean context the essays describe a process facilitated by a cosmology which readily integrates the accoutrements of non Andean community At issue is not so much what is authentic but rather how it is perceived to be authentic and how it is so maintained The nine authors explore a model in which a consistent and persistent cosmological discourse leads not to an emergent social order but to a social order which continually emerges as a peculiarly Andean phenomenon
