Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group was instructed to continue with their current level of activity. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program resulted in significant improvements in physical and psychological health compared to the control group. The walking program was safe and effective for improving the health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

Abstract

Many authors were recognized for the present table in Paris. The most notable were Aristide Briand of the United States, Georges Clemenceau of France, and Woodrow Wilson (George) of Rhode. Clemenceau was the one who pushed for the inclusion of the United States.

Wilson pointed out the grave implications the President's policy has presented to our nation's education and our people's well-being. He said that the President's policy is "a direct assault on the
