Nowik,2024-03-01 COVID 19 and increased attention to how institutions of higher education IHEs serve an increasingly diverse student population have brought conversations about standard practices from the margins to the center as faculty explore how to improve learning and student success for all students Historically IHEs were built by a privileged class for a privileged class a system and structure built on specific epistemologies practices and habits of mind and language that replicate privilege and leave many students underserved in their academic pursuits One way faculty have increased equity in their college classrooms is through the use of alternative assessment alt assessment practices This volume aims to share the experiences of faculty who have leveraged non traditional grading paradigms for the sake of increasing student learning a sense of belonging and equity in their classrooms Meant to orient faculty who are considering how to implement alt assessment in their own classes as well as those who are already employing various grading frameworks this volume will celebrate new and innovative approaches share lessons learned and invite a broader coalition of faculty into the stream of conversation about pedagogical innovation Faculty educators and practitioners share their approaches to alternate assessment in this volume as well as the critiques lessons and outcomes associated with their pedagogical decisions Written by practitioners for practitioners we hope the book will provide theoretical and practical guidance for alternative assessment practices such as ungrading contract grading standards based grading and labor based grading across various disciplines and within different academic contexts Recalibrating teacher training in African higher education institutions Sifiso

Sibanda,Gideon (Deon) P. van Tonder,Washington T. Dudu,2023-03-01 This book critically examines the role of governments in promoting parity during and in post pandemic education This comes from the realisation that the pandemic has deepened the crisis by depleting the meagre resources that African countries might have devoted to normative educational practices where those on the margins would have been pushed further behind while the privileged would have been further initiated into the cultural and capital flows of private schools and historically research intensive institutions of higher learning This has far reaching implications for the education of underprivileged citizens and education particularly modes and modalities of delivery has to be reimaged to subvert the challenges wrought by the pandemic This book significantly bridges the gap between the pre and post COVID 19 pandemic pedagogical practices and the erstwhile modalities that have been resilient over time The book focuses on ways to stave off pedagogical challenges that face countries as the global pandemic makes its mark

Genocide Literature in Middle and Secondary Classrooms Sarah Donovan, 2016-08-12 At the heart of this inquiry into the ethical implications of education reform on reading practices in middle and secondary classrooms the central question is what is lost hidden or marginalized in the name of progress Drawing on her own experiences as an English teacher during the No Child Left Behind era the author examines school cultures focused on meeting standards and measurable outcomes She shows how genocide literature illuminates the ethics of reading and helps teachers and students rethink how literature should be taught in this modern globalized era and the purposes of education more broadly

English Language Arts as an Emancipatory Subject Andrew Goodwyn, Cal Durrant, Marshall George, Jacqueline Manuel, Wayne Sawyer, Melanie Shoffner, 2024-12-24 English Language Arts as an Emancipatory Subject explores the changing nature and history of the English Language as an emancipatory subject as well as how its current activities and projects address and challenge inequalities Various forms of critical literacy have established English teaching as a radical force for social justice and subversion. However, the expert contributors to this book question whether English is a force for good in its capacity to develop literate citizens or are there larger contemporary complications surrounding it. This book will re-examine the history of English, its present quality as a classroom subject, and its future potential to re-establish itself as an agent of social equality and change. Edited by internationally leading scholars from the UK, USA, and Australia, with contributions from New Zealand and Canada, this work will also inspire English teachers to view their subject as one through which positive differences are imagined and complex real-life issues are debated and challenged in the classroom. The volume is an excellent overview of research and the latest thinking about the nature of English as an emancipatory subject, its distinguished history, and its potential for the future. It will be a key resource for the research and teacher education community, English teachers, student teachers, and anyone who views English teaching as a catalyst of social change.

Designing and Implementing Multimodal Curricula and Programs J. C. Lee, Santosh Khadka, 2018-01-19. This volume presents a comprehensive overview of multimodal approaches to curriculum and programmatic implementation across a diverse range of teaching environments and across geographic and cultural boundaries. Featuring contributions from scholars within and across both disciplines, the book examines the ways in which new technologies link to expanding definitions of literacy and building on this, how multimodal approaches might most effectively address the unique opportunities and challenges instructors face in contemporary classrooms and professional development programs. Chapters draw on case studies from both existing scholarship and findings from the authors' own experiences in practice, including examples from writing rhetoric and composition courses, open online learning courses, and interdisciplinary faculty training programs. The final section of the book showcases how the conversation might be further extended to address increasingly multilingual classrooms by exploring how multimodality has been implemented in transnational settings. Engaging with key questions at the intersection of programmatic and curricular development and multimodal studies, this book is a fundamental resource for graduate students and scholars in multimodality, rhetoric studies, language education, applied linguistics, and communication studies.

Schoolishness Susan D. Blum, 2024-05-15. In Schoolishness, Susan D. Blum continues her journey as an anthropologist and educator. The author defines schoolishness as educational practices that emphasize packaged learning, unimaginative teaching, uniformity, constant evaluation by others, arbitrary forms, predetermined time, and artificial boundaries, resulting in personal and educational alienation, dependence, and dread. Drawing on critical, progressive, and feminist pedagogy in conversation with the anthropology of learning, and building on the insights of her two previous books, Blum proposes less schoolish ways of learning in ten dimensions to lessen the mismatch between learning in school and learning in the wild. She asks: if learning is our human superpower, why is it so difficult to accomplish in school? In every chapter, Blum compares the fake learning of schoolishness with successful examples of authentic learning, including in her own courses, which she scrutinizes critically. Schoolishness is not a pedagogical how-to book but a theory based phenomenology of institutional education It has moral psychological and educational arguments against schoolishness that as Blum notes rhymes with foolishness
