

Job Satisfaction: A Literature Review

EriaMuwanguzi

School of Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Bugema University

Abstract

When an employee is satisfied with the job, then such an employee will be more productive and creative and is more likely to be retained by the organization. Some job satisfaction theoretical frameworks and models are available to that effect namely; Herzbergs' Two Factor Theory, Adams Equity Theory, and Job Characteristic Theory among others. We find that all the above models have been widely employed in the study of job satisfaction studies. We notably argue that Smircik and Petersons' Model can be included on the list of job satisfaction models. Hence based on a thorough review of Smircik and Petersons' model, research hypotheses were derived to guide further studies on the factors related to job satisfaction and a review of the literature was conducted on these identified research hypotheses.

1. Introduction

Several authors (e.g. Hoppeck, 1935; Smith, Kendall & Hulin, 1969; Locke, 1976; Spector, 1985; Cranny, Smith & Stone, 1992; Paul & Phua, 2011) have defined the concept of job satisfaction. In particular, Hoppeck (1935) defined job satisfaction as a combination of psychological, physiological as well as the circumstances of the environment which cause the employee to say; "I am happy with my job". In line with this definition, Hoppeck developed an overall measure of job satisfaction based on the responses of workers to five questions concerning how satisfied they were. These included direct inquiries such as "how satisfied are you with your job" as well as indirect measures on whether the worker would recommend the job to a friend; whether the employee plans to look for a new job within the next year; whether the worker would take the same job again if given a choice and how the job measures up to the sort of job the worker wanted when one took it.

Smith et al. (1969) defined job satisfaction as the feeling an individual has about his or her job. To him, job satisfaction could be measured in terms of pay, work itself, promotions, supervision, and coworkers. Locke (1976) defined job satisfaction as an emotional-affective response to a job or specific aspects of the job. Locke was in agreement with Smith et al. (1969) on the measures of job satisfaction to include; work itself, pay, promotion, supervision, and relationship with co-workers. Spector (1985) defined job satisfaction as the extent to which people like (satisfiers) or dislike (dissatisfiers) their jobs. Satisfiers are those factors that fulfill an individual's need for psychological growth. Dissatisfiers on the other hand are those rewards that merely serve to prevent an individual from "feeling bad" about work. To him, he measured job satisfaction in terms of benefits, pay, work itself, promotion, supervision, relationship with coworkers, contingent rewards, communication as well as operating procedures.

Cranny et al. (1992) define job satisfaction as a general expression of a worker's positive attitude. To them, a person with high job satisfaction appears to hold generally positive attitudes and one who is dissatisfied tends to hold negative attitudes towards his or her job. These attitudes are important characteristics of the job like work itself, pay, promotion opportunities, supervision and relationship with co-workers. On their part, Paul and Phua (2011) defined job satisfaction as how well outcomes meet or exceed expectations. For instance, if an employee feels that he or she is working much harder than others in a particular department but receiving fewer rewards, he or she will probably have a negative feeling toward the work, the boss and the co-workers. Thus when we talk of job satisfaction, we are talking of it as a sense of happiness with one's job (Hoppeck, 1935); as a feeling an individual has about his or her job (Smith et al, 1969); an emotional- affective state of workers (Locke, 1976); as the extent to which people like or dislike their jobs (Spector, 1985); as a general expression of a

DETERMINANTS OF JOB SATISFACTION IN NEWLY ESTABLISHED ORGANIZATIONS AND THEIR EFFECTS ON EMPLOYEE MOTIVATION

Halil Ahmet URAN, 2025-08-25 This book is derived from my master's thesis titled Determinants of Job Satisfaction in Newly Established Organizations and Their Effects on Employee Motivation. It has been developed and elaborated as a contribution to the field of management and organization within the social sciences. It is intended to serve as a guiding and inspiring resource for fellow professionals and academics working in this area. In preparing this book, my objective was to conduct an exploratory study on how a more effective and efficient working model can be established to lay the foundations of an institutional organizational structure. The study takes as an example a newly established public university and focuses particularly on the administrative staff who play as significant a role as the academic personnel in the university's foundation and development process. It aims to identify the key determinants of job satisfaction and the motivational tools that can enhance performance within such settings. I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to Prof. Dr. Burak APRAZ, faculty member of the Department of Management and Organization, Faculty of Economics and Administrative Sciences at Ege University, for his invaluable support and guidance throughout this process. I am also deeply thankful to my beloved wife Berna Nilgün ZG RSOY URAN for her unwavering support, encouragement, and motivation during challenging times, and to my dear son merhan URAN who is always in my heart. Dr. Halil Ahmet URAN, zmir K tip elebi University, zmir, 2025.

Economic Development and the Environmental Ecosystem Hasan Dincer, Serhat Yüksel, 2023-04-17. This volume illustrates the relationship between environmental factors and economic development of countries from various angles Global warming has become a problem that threatens the whole world especially in recent years It is known that the main reason for this is carbon emissions On the other hand carbon emissions generally consist of fossil fuel based energy consumption This situation creates very serious environmental problems Because of this problem the concept of carbon zero has become very popular especially in recent years Many countries take some actions to minimize carbon emissions Especially in the coming years carbon emissions will become a competitive factor for countries and businesses In this respect countries with low carbon emissions will be preferred more in foreign trade In addition businesses that do not generate carbon emissions in the production process will also gain a significant competitive advantage in international trade The contributions take a multidimensional outlook to energy investments and offer solutions for decision making for energy projects in risky business ecosystems

Leadership and Narcissism in the Organization Mateusz Grzesiak,2022-11-11 Narcissists are seen as people who could inspire others due to their strong charisma great vision and ability to convince the crowd that they possess features that others don t They have followers and fans and the ability to control them On the other hand narcissistic leaders express a lack of empathy and high levels of aggression and show constant criticism of others while refusing feedback on their performance Those features indicate that such leaders have a strong sense of entitlement of superiority therefore it is hard to work with them In the corporate world many individuals with narcissistic personalities are chosen as leaders of organizations or teams which often harms their co workers and subordinates Very few lower level employees have a positive perception of their narcissistic leaders or are satisfied with their job and so there is need to measure through qualitative research based on already existing articles in a given subject the correlation between the perception of narcissistic leader and the leader evaluation method This book gives insight into psychology and management by linking the narcissistic personality with the leadership role and with the method of evaluating a leader along with discussing the positive or negative outcomes of their leadership Readers will learn about the phenomenon of narcissistic individuals and leaders as well as the attributes and traits of such a person This research monograph will be of interest to researchers academics and advanced students in the fields of work and
