These three elements of the analysis have been used to build a general-purpose model of the interaction between the individual and the environment. The model is based on the idea that the individual's behavior is determined by the interaction of three factors: the individual's characteristics, the environment, and the interaction between the two. The model is based on the idea that the individual's behavior is determined by the interaction of three factors: the individual's characteristics, the environment, and the interaction between the two.
