Undergraduate Mathematics for the Life Sciences Glenn Ledder,Jenna P. Carpenter,Timothy D. Comar,2013 There is a gap between the extensive mathematics background that is beneficial to biologists and the minimal mathematics background biology students acquire in their courses The result is an undergraduate education in biology with very little quantitative content New mathematics courses must be devised with the needs of biology students in mind In this volume authors from a variety of institutions address some of the problems involved in reforming mathematics curricula for biology students The problems are sorted into three themes Models Processes and Directions It is difficult for mathematicians to generate curriculum ideas for the training of biologists so a number of the curriculum models that have been introduced at various institutions comprise the Models section Processes deals with taking that great course and making sure it is institutionalized in both the biology department as a requirement and in the mathematics department as a course that will live on even if the creator of the course is no longer on the faculty Directions looks to the future with each paper laying out a case for pedagogical developments that the authors would like to see Independent Schools ,2005 Embracing Reason

Daniel Chazan,Sandra Callis,Michael Lehman,2009-12-16 This book tells a single story in many voices about a serious and sustained set of changes in mathematics teaching practice in a high school and how those efforts influenced and were influenced by a local university It includes the writings and perspectives of high school students high school teachers preservice teacher candidates doctoral students in mathematics education and other fields mathematics teacher educators and other education faculty As a whole this case study provides an opportunity to reflect on reform visions of mathematics for all students and the challenges inherent in the implementation of these visions in US schools It challenges us to rethink boundaries between theory and practice and the relative roles of teachers and university faculty in educational endeavors

Educational Technology in the Classroom United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Technology and National Security,United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources. Subcommittee on Education, Arts, and Humanities,1992 The purpose of this hearing was to provide insight into the role of the Federal Government in supporting the development and implementation of the educational technology structure that is needed by elementary and secondary schools It is argued that what is needed is a broad based policy agreement about the role that educational technology can play in enhancing student achievement and curriculum development changing the face of instruction in the classroom and addressing the challenges of education in the 90s A brief opening statement by Jeff Bingaman Chairman of the Subcommittee on Technology and National Security is followed by statements and in some cases submissions for the record by the following witnesses 1 Shelly Weinstein President EDSAT Institute 2 Jack D Foster Cabinet Secretary for Education and the Humanities Kentucky statement and report Analysis of a Proposal for an Education Satellite 3 Donald Ledwig Corporation for Public Broadcasting statement and report 1991 Study of School Uses of Television Video 4 Henry J Cauthen America s Public Television Stations and South Carolina Educational Television Network 5 Dennis D Gooler North Central Regional Educational Laboratory 6 Daniel Schultz Michigan Department of Education statement and article An Inquiry Centered Classroom of the Future 7 Cecilia Lenk Massachusetts Corporation for Educational Telecommunications statement and report Reach for the Stars 8 Sally M Johnstone Western Cooperative for Educational Telecommunications statement and article Research on Telecommunicated Learning Past Present and Future 9 Gregory J Liptak Mind Extension University and 10 Gary N Vance Satellite Educational Resources Consortium SERC on Technology in the Classroom An opening statement by Strom Thurmond member of the Subcommittee on Education Arts and Humanities is also included DB

Standards-based School Mathematics Curricula Sharon L. Senk, Denisse R. Thompson, 2020-07-24 The Curriculum and Evaluation Standards for School Mathematics published by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics in 1989 set forth a broad vision of mathematical content and pedagogy for grades K 12 in the United States These Standards prompted the development of Standards based mathematics curricula What features characterize Standards based curricula How well do such curricula work To answer these questions the editors invited researchers who had investigated the implementation of 12 different Standards based mathematics curricula to describe the effects of these curricula on students learning and achievement and to provide evidence for any claims they made In particular authors were asked to identify content on which performance of students using Standards based materials differed from that of students using more traditional materials and content on which performance of these two groups of students was virtually identical Additionally four scholars not involved with the development of any of the materials were invited to write critical commentaries on the work reported in the other chapters Section I of Standards Based School Mathematics Curricula provides a historical background to place the current curriculum reform efforts in perspective a summary of recent recommendations to reform school mathematics and a discussion of issues that arise when conducting research on student outcomes Sections II III and IV are devoted to research on mathematics curriculum projects for elementary middle and high schools respectively The final section is a commentary by Jeremy Kilpatrick Regents Professor of Mathematics Education at the University of Georgia on the research reported in this book It provides a historical perspective on the use of research to guide mathematics curriculum reform in schools and makes additional recommendations for further research In addition to the references provided at the end of each chapter other references about the Standards based curriculum projects are provided at the end of the book This volume is a valuable resource for all participants in discussions about school mathematics curricula including professors and graduate students interested in mathematics education curriculum development program evaluation or the history of education educational policy makers teachers parents principals and other school administrators The editors hope that the large body of empirical evidence and the thoughtful discussion of educational values found in this book will enable readers to engage in informed civil discourse about the goals and methods of school mathematics curricula and related research MAA Notes ,1983
