Continental Powers and Naval Development Brian C. Chao, 2025-10-16 This book examines how continental great powers have attempted to develop and wield strong navies since 1801 Continental Powers and Naval Development argues that a continental great power's ability to build and effectively use a strong navy is greatly affected by two factors a naval force design capable of executing national strategy strategy coherence and the deployment of that navy to places or for purposes that minimize the dominant naval power's threat perception threat diffusion Each factor is deceptively difficult for a continental great power to achieve but through an analysis of four historical case studies this book shows how both factors are vital not just for successful naval development but for keeping the peace among great powers Finally it highlights how states commonly thought of as unnatural naval powers can nonetheless achieve their political objectives at sea This book will be of much interest to students of naval history maritime strategy and International Relations Words and visions

Chinese Diaspora Charity and the Cantonese Pacific, 1850-1949 John Fitzgerald, Hon-ming Yip, 2020-04-15 Chinese Diaspora Charity and the Cantonese Pacific 1850 1949 sheds new light on the history of charity among Chinese overseas and its place in the history of charity in China and in the wider history of global philanthropy It finds that diaspora charity besides serving traditional functions of helping the sick and destitute and supporting development in China helped to build trust among dispersed hometown networks while challenging color boundaries in host societies by contributing to wider social causes The book shows that charitable activities among the Gold Rush communities of the Pacific rim a loosely integrated migr network from Guangdong Province perhaps better known for its business acumen and hard work among English speaking settler societies in North America and Australasia also led the way with social innovations that helped to shape modern charity in China Fitzgerald and Yip s volume demonstrates that charity lay at the heart of community life among Chinese communities overseas From remittances accompanying letters to contributions to benevolent organizations emigrants transferred funds in many different ways to meet urgent requirements such as disaster relief while also contributing to long term initiatives like building schools or hospitals By drawing attention to diaspora contributions to their host societies the contributors correct a common misunderstanding of the historical Chinese diaspora which is often perceived by host communities as self interested or disengaged This important study also reappraises the value of charitable donations in the maintenance of networks an essential feature of diaspora life across the Cantonese Pacific Fitzgerald and Yip s fascinating collection is a major contribution to the growing study of charity and its relationship to social welfare The essays show how remittances were used for much more than family support The book fills a large gap on the almost unrecognized importance of charity among Cantonese communities in the Chinese diaspora Diana Lary University of British Columbia This collection is a great contribution to our understanding of how important charity became among overseas Chinese in the early stages of the diaspora between 1850 and 1949 Philanthropy was crucial in the creation of trust networks among the diasporic communities that earned Chinese recognition to the overseas communities both in China and in their host countries Sue Fawn Chung University of Nevada Las Vegas

China's Energy Security and Relations With Petrostates
Anna Kuteleva, 2021-07-26 This book examines the development of bilateral energy relations between China and the two oil rich countries Kazakhstan and Russia Challenging conventional assumptions about energy politics and China s global quest for oil this book examines the interplay of politics and sociocultural contexts It shows how energy resources become ideas and how these ideas are mobilized in the realm of international relations China s relations with Kazakhstan and Russia are simultaneously enabled and constrained by the discursive politics of oil It is argued that to build collaborative and constructive energy relations with China its partners in Kazakhstan Russia and elsewhere must consider not only the material realities of China s energy industry and the institutional settings of China s energy policy but also the multiple symbolic meanings that energy resources and particularly oil acquire in China China s Energy Security and Relations with Petrostates offers a nuanced understanding of China s bilateral energy relations with Kazakhstan and Russia raising essential questions about the social logic of international energy politics It will appeal to students and scholars of international relations energy security Chinese and post Soviet studies along with researchers working in the fields of energy policy and environmental sustainability      Chinese Communist Espionage Peter Mattis,Matthew Brazil,2019-11-15 This is the first book of its kind to employ hundreds of Chinese sources to explain the history and current state of Chinese Communist intelligence operations It profiles the leaders top spies and important operations in the history of China s espionage organs and links to an extensive online glossary of Chinese language intelligence and security terms Peter Mattis and Matthew Brazil present an unprecedented look into the murky world of Chinese espionage both past and present enabling a better understanding of how pervasive and important its influence is both in China and abroad
