Globalization and Summit Reform Peter C. Heap, 2008-06-03 Ever since I was a graduate student at the University of Chicago in October 1962 I have been interested in challenges at the global scale that could affect the future of humanity The Cuban Missile Crisis brought home to me how vulnerable we are Indeed it brought home that we could be dead from causes thousands of miles away with a warning of a maximum of thirty minutes It was obvious the world was becoming smaller As I looked out the window from my apartment in Chicago I could see children of school age at play in the alley despite it being a weekday They weren't in school One rarely saw adult men with them only women What consequences would that bring Not far away was the headquarters of a strange group calling themselves the Black Muslims There was a palpable anger that radiated from there Where would this lead Was there not a breaking point in how much difference in wealth and general well being could be tolerated I became increasingly interested in international politics in particular about how we governed ourselves through international institutions and international law Hans Morgenthau emphasized to us the importance of national interests It became clear to me that governments needed interests as an incentive to act certainly if there were important consequences in acting Values were important but were not a sufficient condition

Academic Motivation of Adolescents Tim Urdan, Frank Pajares, 2002-09-01 Few academic issues are of greater concern to teachers parents and school administrators than the academic motivation of the adolescents in their care There are good reasons for this concern Students who are academically motivated perform better in school value their schooling are future oriented in their academic pursuits and possess the academic confidence and positive feelings of self worth so necessary to increasing academic achievement Because academically motivated students engage their schoolwork with confidence and interest they are less likely to drop out of school suffer fewer disciplinary problems and prove resilient in the face of setbacks and obstacles It is precisely because academic motivation is so essential to academic achievement that motivation has taken a place along with cognition as one of the most followed lines of inquiry in educational psychology In this volume we are fortunate to gather together some of the most eminent scholars who have written extensively about the academic motivation of adolescents We are fortunate also in that they represent the varied theories and lines of inquiry that currently dominate research in this area In all we believe that in the dozen chapters that comprise this volume the authors provide elegant insights regarding the academic and social motivation of adolescents that will prove of interest to researchers students teachers school administrators parents policymakers and all others who play a pivotal role or are otherwise invested in the lives of adolescents in today's society. It is our hope that these insights will not only further the conversation on adolescence and education but will serve as the impetus for further research capable of generating the creative ideas, programs, and structures so necessary to better the lives of the young people in our care. Diagnosed with a lower limb disability at birth, Ronan Tynan had his legs amputated below the knee when he was twenty years old. Eight weeks later, he was climbing the stairs of his college dorm, and within a year, he was winning races in the Paralympic Games, amassing eighteen gold medals and fourteen world records. After becoming the first disabled person ever admitted to the National College of Physical Education, he served a short stint in the prosthetics industry and began a new career in medicine. He continued his studies at Trinity College, where he specialized in orthopedic sports injuries. After earning his medical degree, Ronan chose music for the next act in his life. Less than one year after he began studying voice, he won both the John McCormick Cup for Tenor Voice and the BBC talent show Go for It. He went on to win the prestigious International Operatic Singing Competition in France, and in 1998, his debut Sony album My Life Belongs to You became a top five hit in England within just two weeks and eventually went platinum. Later that year, he was invited to join The Irish Tenors, furthering a journey that started in a small Irish village and has brought him to the world's grandest stages. In Halfway Home, Tynan movingly describes his life story, which Barbara Walters called so amazing you may find it hard to believe. The Employment Interview Handbook Robert W. Eder, Michael M.
