Legal and Ethical Standards in Corporate Insolvency Elizabeth Streten,2024-06-17 Recent financial crisis and the global financial impacts of the COVID 19 pandemic have brought renewed interest to the regulation and practice of corporate insolvency and restructuring Modernisation of the insolvency profession and the regulation of its practitioners is a contemporary concern and recent years have seen significant reforms of insolvency law The success of such reforms can be enhanced through a clear understanding of difficulties faced by the insolvency profession in achieving successful restructuring and insolvency outcomes and through the determination of effective solutions to those difficulties However there is limited empirical data to inform the day to day practice of insolvency nor the difficulties experienced by insolvency practitioners in pursuing insolvency and restructuring solutions This book addresses this absence of data and understanding examining the role and practice of corporate insolvency practitioners and exploring the challenges that they encounter Offering an empirical study together with a comparative analysis of the experiences of practitioners around the world this book facilitates a greater understanding of corporate insolvency practice confronting a misunderstanding of and under confidence in corporate insolvency practitioners making it key reading for academics practitioners and regulators working in the area of corporate insolvency

The influence of clients on the social identities within the audit profession Johanna Sylvander,2020-03-02 The overall purpose of the thesis is to explore the meaning of professionalism and independence for the individuals within the audit arena Professionalism is defined as the occupational values that guide auditors professional behaviour and how independence is understood is assumed to be influenced by the social groups the auditors identify with. The audit arena consists of several social actors i.e. the audit profession, audit firms and auditors as well as external constituencies of the profession i.e. accountants and accountees. The audit profession both serves the public interest by quality ensuring the information provided by the accountants to the accountees as well as conducts business in a state sanctioned monopoly like market. Appearing independent and professional is therefore critical for the profession as independence and professionalism is the basis of society's trust in the profession and may particularly influence the profession's ability to recruit and retain staff. The audit profession, audit firms, offices and audit teams are social groups which influence the values, attitudes and behaviours of the auditors through the process of socialization into the profession and the audit firm. However, accountants i.e. clients and accountees i.e. stakeholders such as investors are also social actors who may influence the values, attitudes and behaviour of auditors if auditors identify with these social actors. Exploring the social identities at play within the audit arena enables us to more fully understand the values that guide professional work. The thesis empirically investigates the social identity audit arena through potential current and former audit employees' perceptions of the audit arena where the data is both qualitative interviews and quantitative surveys in nature. The empirical material provides both pre-socialized and post-socialized perspectives on the audit arena where the bulk of the material stems from the pre-socialized perspective. The thesis suggests that there are two types of auditors namely small client auditors and large client auditors where the small client auditor group dominates the audit arena. The role of the small client auditor is described differently from the large public client auditor's role. The small client auditor is perceived as a teacher who helps the clients run their businesses better and avoid problems with tax authorities et cetera making it necessary for the auditor to have a good and close relationship with the client in order to fulfil her/his role. The large client auditor is described more as having the traditional guardians of the market role. Hence it seems as the small client auditor is guided by other values and has a different understanding of independence compared to the large client auditor. However the large client auditor is also perceived as having a counselling teacher role indicating that some professional values are shared by small client and large client auditors. These different roles auditors are perceived to have where independence and working for the public interest seem to mean different things can influence how new audit employees perceive the profession. If employees expect to work as large client auditors but instead experience work being guided by small client auditor values or vice versa it may influence the willingness to stay in the profession. These two roles are also a potential factor influencing the expectation gap i.e. the gap between what society thinks the auditor does and what s/he does in practice. These two roles may therefore influence society's image of the auditor and where the profession may have issues in appearing independent in the relationship with small clients.
