The Politics of Religion in Indonesia Michel Picard, Rémy Madinier, 2011-05-13 Indonesia is a remarkable case study for religious politics While not being a theocratic country it is not secular either with the

Indonesian state officially defining what constitutes religion and every citizen needing to be affiliated to one of them This book focuses on Java and Bali and the interesting comparison of two neighbouring societies shaped by two different religions Islam and Hinduism The book examines the appropriation by the peoples of Java and Bali of the idea of religion through a dialogic process of indigenization of universalist religions and universalization of indigenous religions It looks at the tension that exists between proponents of local world views and indigenous belief systems and those who deny those local traditions as qualifying as a religion This tension plays a leading part in the construction of an Indonesian religious identity recognized by the state The book is of interest to students and scholars of Southeast Asia religious studies and the anthropology and sociology of religion

Turning Mental Health into Social Action Bernard Guerin, 2020-07-19 This book offers a refreshing new approach to mental health by showing how mental health behaviours lived experiences and our interventions arise from our social worlds and not from our neurophysiology gone wrong It is part of a trilogy which offers a new way of doing psychology focusing on people's social and societal environments as determining their behaviour rather than internal and individualistic attributions Mental health behaviours are carefully analysed as ordinary behaviours which have become exaggerated and chronic because of the bad life situations people are forced to endure especially as children This shifts mental health treatments away from the dominance of psychology and psychiatry to show that social action is needed because many of these bad life situations are produced by our modern society itself By providing new ways for readers to rethink everything they thought they knew about mental health issues and how to change them Bernard Guerin also explores how by changing our environmental contexts our local societal and discursive worlds we can improve mental health interventions This book reframes mental health into a much wider social context to show how societal structures restrict our opportunities and pathways to produce bad life situations and how we can also learn from those who manage to deal with the very same bad life situations through crime bullying exploitation and dropping out of mainstream society rather than through the mental health behaviours By merging psychology and psychiatry into the social sciences Guerin seeks to better understand how humans operate in their social cultural economic patriarchal discursive and societal worlds rather than being isolated inside their heads with a faulty brain and this will provide fascinating reading for academics and students in psychology and the social sciences and for counsellors and therapists
