Clinical Handbook of Psychological Consultation in Pediatric Medical Settings Bryan D. Carter, Kristin A. Kullgren, 2020-03-20
This handbook examines pediatric consultation liaison psychology in pediatric medical settings. It offers a brief history of pediatric psychologists' delivery of consultation liaison services. The handbook provides an overview of roles, models, and configurations of pediatric psychology practice in diverse inpatient and outpatient medical settings. Chapters discuss the most frequently seen major pediatric conditions encountered in consultation practice. Coverage includes evaluation, intervention, and treatment of each condition. Each clinical condition addresses the referral problem in the context of history and family dynamics. In addition, chapters address important aspects of the management of a consultation liaison service and provide contextual issues in delivering evidence-based services in hospital and medical settings. Topics featured in this handbook include: The role of assessment in the often fast-paced medical environment; Modifications of approaches in the context of disorders of development; Consultation on pediatric gender identity; The presentation of child maltreatment in healthcare settings; The use of technological innovations in pediatric psychological consultation; Important ethical considerations in consultation liaison practice. Clinical Handbook of Psychological Consultation in Pediatric Medical Settings is a must-have resource for clinicians and related professionals as well as researchers, professors, and graduate students in pediatric and clinical child and adolescent psychology, pediatrics, social work, developmental psychology, child and adolescent psychiatry, and related disciplines.

Resources in Education, 1995 Towards Human Rights in Residential Care for Older Persons Helen Meenan, Nicola Rees, Israel Doron, 2015-07-30
People are leading significantly longer lives than previous generations did, and the proportion of older people in the population is growing. Residential care for older people will become increasingly necessary as our society ages, and we will require more of it. At this moment in time, the rights of older people receive attention at international and regional levels with the United Nations, the Organization of American States, and the African Union exploring the possibility of establishing new conventions for the rights of older persons. This book explores the rights of older people and their quality of care once they are living in a care home and considers how we can commence the journey towards a human rights framework to ensure decent and dignified care for older people. The book takes a comparative approach to present and future challenges facing the care home sector for older people in Africa, Kenya, the Arab world, Egypt, Australia, China, England, Israel, Japan, and the USA. An international panel of experts have contributed chapters identifying how their particular society cares for its older and oldest people, the extent to which demographic and economic change has placed their system under pressure, and the role that residential elder care homes play in their culture. The book also explores the extent to which constitutional or other rights form a foundation to the regulatory and legislative structures to residential elder care, and it examines the important concept of dignity. As a multi-regional study of the care of older persons, from a human rights perspective this book will be of excellent use and interest in particular to students and researchers of family and welfare law long term care social policy social work human rights and elder law Health Informatics Vision: From Data via Information to Knowledge Arie Hasman,Aikaterini Kolokathi,Mowafa S.
