Gagnon,Mercedes Garcia Carrillo,2024-05-09 Predominant health research agendas usually in line with existing financial incentives for obtaining lucrative research results tend to focus on therapeutic and pharmacological intervention prioritizing innovative therapies based on molecular biology and biotechnology approaches However commercial interests do not necessarily agree with existing public health priorities The prevalence of health and biomedical research agendas often neglect not only the less lucrative diseases but also the study of the social and environmental determinants of health and disease even when addressing these aspects could significantly improve population health at much lower costs Some examples of absent studies in the health research agendas are the analysis of non medical factors influencing health outcomes social determinants of health the analysis of the relationship between people and their environment environmental health or the evaluation of the socio environmental factors that influence the deterioration of bodies and territories such as the One Health approach
