Geomorphology Artur Radecki-Pawlik ,Tomáš Galia,2020-12-10 After publishing the famous Fluvial Processes in Geomorphology in the early 1960s the work of Luna Leopold Gordon Wolman and John Miller became a key for opening the door to understanding rivers and streams They first illustrated the problem to geomorphologists and geographers Later Chang in his Fluvial Processes in River Engineering provided a basis for engineers showing this group of professionals how to deal with rivers and how to understand them Since then more informative studies have been published Many of the authors started to combine fluvial geomorphology knowledge and river engineering needs such as Tools in Fluvial Geomorphology by G Mathias Kondolf and Herv Pi gay or focused more on river engineering tasks such as Stream Restoration in Dynamic Fluvial Systems Scientific Approaches by Andrew Simon Sean Bennett and Janine Castro Finally Luna Leopold summarized river and stream morphologies in the beautiful A view of the river It appears that we continue to explore this subject in the right direction We better understand rivers and streams and as engineers and fluvial geomorphologists we can establish tools to help bring rivers alive However there is still a hunger for more scientific tools that we could use to further understand rivers and to support the development of healthy streams and rivers with high biodiversity in the present world which has started to face water scarcity

Making the Mission Ocean Howell,2015-11-17 In the aftermath of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake residents of the city s iconic Mission District bucked the city wide development plan defiantly announcing that in their neighborhood they would be calling the shots Ever since the Mission has become known as a city within a city and a place where residents have over the last century organized and reorganized themselves to make the neighborhood in their own image In Making the Mission Ocean Howell tells the story of how residents of the Mission District organized to claim the right to plan their own neighborhood and how they mobilized a politics of place and ethnicity to create a strong often racialized identity a pattern that would repeat itself again and again throughout the twentieth century Surveying the perspectives of formal and informal groups city officials and district residents local and federal agencies Howell articulates how these actors worked with and against one another to establish the very ideas of the public and the public interest as well as to negotiate and renegotiate what the neighborhood wanted In the process he shows that national narratives about how cities grow and change are fundamentally insufficient everything is always shaped by local actors and concerns
